

100 PROBERS ACCUSE GENERAL MOSELEY

100 Injured in Terrific Street Battles at Jerusalem

WAVE AFTER WAVE OF POLICE CHARGE CROWD OF RIOTERS

175,000 Jews March in Protest of Arab Rule; Czecho-Slovak Consulate Official Is Stoned.

JERUSALEM, May 18.—
(AP)—More than 100 casualties were suffered tonight in terrific battles in the streets of Jerusalem between police and Jewish youths demonstrating against Britain's new policy of an Independent Arab-controlled Palestine.

At least 100 Jewish youths, most of them between the ages of 10 and 16, were wounded.

Police suffered several casualties, and at least two of them were injured severely by revolver shots.

Stones Hurling.
After the Jews had made an orderly demonstration march through the central streets of the city, some 5,000 Jewish youths assembled in the early afternoon, in front of the district commissioner's office to carry on their protest against Britain's policy.

Booting police and throwing stones, they drew a baton charge by police. The crowd recoiled somewhat, then pressed forward, hurling stones.

The police were forced to give way in order to allow time to receive reinforcements.

Police Charge.
Then wave after wave of police charged down Jaffa road with batons swinging here and there.

The Jewish youths, refusing to give way, replied with stones or any objects they could seize.

For three hours the battle continued without a let up.

Then the police finally got the upper hand and broke the resistance.

By 9:30 p. m., more than 100
Jewish injured had been counted.
Many of the injuries were serious.

Shots Fired.
Police fired shots over the heads of the rioters during the battle in an effort to disperse them.

In similar demonstrations at the all-Jewish city of Tel Aviv at least 40 persons received first aid hospital treatment in a number of clashes between Jewish youths and police.

In the Jerusalem disorders, an official of the Czecho-Slovak con-sulate was wounded seriously when he was attacked and stoned by a mob as he drove in his automobile near the district commissioner's office.

British police reported two of

Gallogly Abused in Prison, Not Favored, Says Mother

Mrs. Yankey Testifies She Found Son Bruised and Bloody in Visit to Camp; Denies He Enjoyed Privileges at Clemency Hearing.

By The Associated Press.
Mrs. Frances Gray Yankey testified yesterday that instead of enjoying favoritism her son, Richard Gallogly, had endured hardship and, at times, abuse while serving a life prison term.

Mrs. Yankey appeared at a public clemency hearing for her son before Governor Rivers and the State Prison and Parole Board in the state senate chamber. She disputed testimony of earlier witnesses that Gallogly had received favored treatment from prison officials, asserting he had quarters and clothing similar to other prisoners and did the same kind of hard work.

Tells of Prison Visit.
She told of going to visit him once at the Cobb county prison camp and, being allowed to see him only through the iron bars, observed that he was cut, bruised and bloody, apparently from being beaten. When she went back the next day and was told by her son that he had not received any medical attention, she said, she arranged with the prison commissioner for him to receive hospital treatment.

"He has never had a well day since then," she asserted. "His condition has steadily grown worse."

Met Bride Seven Years Ago.
During her testimony, she disclosed that it was about seven years ago that her son first met Miss Vera Hunt, whom he married last Friday at the Crawford W. Long hospital, where he is under treatment.

Miss Hunt, whose home was at Cedartown, Ga., Mrs. Yankey said, was a teacher at the Georgia State College for Women at Milledgeville, where her son was serving his sentence. The teachers and students of the college were allowed to visit the prison and it was in this manner and through "mutual friends" that her son and Miss Hunt met.

In about a year, Miss Hunt severed her connection with the college and has been living with her for about six years, Mrs. Yankey added.

After Mrs. Yankey and a number of other witnesses had testified, the hearing was adjourned.

MONTREAL HAILS KING AND QUEEN AS MILLION CHEER

Royal Couple Feted for 10 Crowded Hours by City; Wildly Acclaimed in 23-Mile Parade Route.

MONTREAL, Que., May 18.—
(AP)—For 10 crowded hours King George and Queen Elizabeth were cheered and feted today by Canada's greatest metropolis.

Determined to outdo Quebec's colorful welcome of yesterday, Montreal massed 1,000,000 cheering and flag-waving people to greet the smiling royal pair.

Ticker tape floating through the air gave a New York touch to their Canadian tour as the parade of royal cars passed the Place d'Armes on their 23-mile route through the city.

Not satisfied with this tumultous greeting, crowds concentrated in Dominion Square outside the Windsor hotel where the King and Queen were guests tonight at a civic dinner attended by both houses of the Canadian parliament, civic officials and prominent citizens.

Forced to Leave Table.
The royal visitors twice were compelled to abandon the lavish banquet table in response to chanted demands for an appearance on the hotel balcony.

"We want the King," "We want the Queen," came the demand.

Coffee had not been served when the King and Queen first went out and gazed over the sea of 100,000 persons singing, "God Save the King." A spotlight picked out the royal pair as they stood waving.

Women, Children Faint.
A shout thundered down the streets and was taken up by hundreds too far away to see.

Many women and children in the throng fainted in the crush and had to be hurried away.

The dinner over, the King and Queen departed from the city at 10 p. m., Atlanta time.

Sleep in Train.
Later their majesties slept in their blue and silver train at the little village of Canadonia where their streamlined engine with its gleaming stainless steel was halted for a late morning entry tomorrow into Ottawa, the Canadian capital.

Packed with eager crowds and decorated with the curbstones to the top of every flagpole and building, this great North American city let loose a tumultuous greeting as their majesties arrived on their cross-country tour that will take them 6,000 miles over Canada and the United States.

At one great stadium 85,000 children, welcomed the royal couple on their visit to Quebec's capital.

SENATE APPROVES RECORD NAVY BILL

Huge Battleships Are Included in Measure; House To Act on Changes

WASHINGTON, May 18.—(P)—
After a spirited debate on the advisability of building two 45,000-ton battleships, the senate approved today the record-breaking $773,049,151 naval appropriation bill, which includes funds for starting work on the super-dreadnaughts and on 21 other navy ships.

The 61-to-14 vote sent the measure back to the house for action on minor amendments which the senate attached to it.

Vandenberg Criticizes.
During the debate, Senator Vandenberg, Republican, Michigan, criticized construction of the two great battleships, saying that he did not want "this country to take the lead in a super naval race in which no one ever catches up, to which there is no end and which eventually will bankrupt everybody."

He challenged administration men to produce evidence that any other power was building such craft.

Japan Issue.
Senator Byrnes, Democrat, South Carolina, floor manager for the naval measure, said navy officials had testified that Japan was constructing ships ranging

Huiet, Foes 'Doing' Three Little Fishes

By L. A. FARRELL.
Like the three little fishes in the currently popular song, the three kingfishers of the State Labor Department swam and they swam and they swam yesterday until it appeared all might, like Kay Mayers's fishes, so over the dam.

The kingfishers in the swim were Ben T. Huiet, labor commissioner; Lenn P. James, ousted and reinstated, ousted and reinstated, and ousted but not reinstated director of the Unemployment Compensation Bureau, and Marion Williamson, ousted but not ousted, board of appeals referee.

Other Daily Doings.
The dam in question is a 1931 act which gives the Governor authority in case of administrative conflict "to report same to the next general assembly and in the interim as executive of this state he is empowered to give such direction to the matters in conflict as will best subserve the interests of the state."

Daily doings at the Labor Department yesterday included:
Announcement by Commissioner Huiet that he "could not concur" in Governor Rivers' latest executive order directing the reinstatement of the often fired James because, Huiet alleges, James did not pass the federal merit examination before obtaining his appointment.

That Merit Exam Again.

ousted by the department's board of review, that he could not be fired because he had passed the merit examination and was duly

U. S. ANTI-SEMITIC DRIVE IS CHARGED BY HOUSE GROUP

Atlanta Selected as Site For Headquarters To Launch Campaign, Investigators Are Told.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—
(AP)—Chairman Dies, Democrat, Texas, of the house committee, announced today he had evidence to show that a well-organized anti-Semitic campaign had developed in the United States, and that it had attracted the support of Major General George Van Horn
Moseley, retired.

Dies, whose committee had taken testimony in a session today which was surrounded with extraordinary secrecy, made public a letter which he said Moseley, former fourth corps area commander in the army, had written to a New York national guard officer. The letter, which Dies announced was part of his committee's record, said in part:

"The fact is that the most serious problem confronting America today is just this problem of the Jew and how to get rid of his influence definitely—locally, nationally and internationally."

"Club Conversations." Another letter, alleged to have been written by Moseley to a reserve army captain, said:

"If the Jews bump me off, be sure to see that they get the credit for it from coast to coast. It will help our cause."

Committee members declared that the campaign took the form of mailing, to army reserve officers and American Legion officials, reports of conversations reputed to have taken place in an exclusive New York club.

"War of Propaganda."
Others mentioned by the committee were Dudley P. Gilbert, wealthy New Yorker; James Erwin Campbell, 42-year-old reserve army captain; George Deatherage, St. Albans, W. Va., chief of the Knights of Camellia, and Felix McWhirter, Indianapolis banker and former president of the state bank division of the American Bankers' Association.

Deatherage was alleged to have written Campbell last December saying that "the plan now" is to start a "little GHQ" (headquarters) in Atlanta and prepare plans for a campaign. The thought in mind, the letter said, was to "build an army and secure leadership."

"Of course," it added, "the general must be careful in dealing with men of the R. O. A. (Reserve Officers' Association) or any outfit that is still in active service—for if he did, the accusation would be made at once that he was building up a Fascist army."

"I feel sure that if these men,
many of whom you and I know, were apprised of the situation, they would resign their commissions and enlist with us for this

SENATORS EATING SAME CANNED BEEF THEY'RE AGAINST

WASHINGTON, May 18.—(P)—
Senators who have been aroused by the navy's purchase of canned beef from South America were advised today by Senator Norris, Independent, Nebraska, that they have been eating it themselves right in the senate restaurant.

Senator Lucas, Democrat, Illinois, promptly demanded of Senator O'Mahoney, Democrat, Wyoming, who then had the floor, if he knew who was responsible.

O'Mahoney did—it was the rules committee, he said, of which Lucas recently became a member.

Norris sent a page to fetch a can from the restaurant and a dozen senators huddled over Lucas' desk to examine it. It bore the label of a domestic packer, but Norris said the meat itself came from South America.

Banana Nut Bread
from Mrs. L. A. Rhodes, 973 Lucile Ave., S. W., Atlanta.

1-2 cup shortening (butter and shortening mixed)
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
3 large bananas
2 cups flour
1 level teaspoon soda
1-4 teaspoon salt
1 cup chopped nuts
Method: Cream the shortening and sugar well, add the eggs, well beaten; add well-mashed bananas. Sift the flour with the soda and salt, add to the first mixture gradually, then stir in the chopped nuts. Bake in moderate oven one hour.

Ribbon Sandwich Loaf from F. M. Moseley, 887 Ponce de Leon Ave., N. E., Apt. 2, Atlanta.

Remove crusts from loaf and cut in lengthwise slices. Spread each slice with butter. Add the fillings, replace the layers as to form a whole loaf again. Wrap in waxed paper and a damp cloth. Chill for several hours. When ready to serve spread entire loaf with a mixture of cream cheese softened with a bit of cream or mayonnaise. Garnish with slices of pimiento and green peppers.
First Filling (Red):
1-3 cup cooked ham
1-4 cup pimientos
1-4 cup diced celery
1-8 teaspoon paprika
2 tablespoons salad dressing

Second Filling (Green):
1-4 cup chopped green olives
1-3 cup chopped sweet pickles
1 teaspoon minced parsley
1-4 teaspoon chopped onions
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper

1-3 cup cream cheese
1 tablespoon salad dressing
Third Filling (Yellow):
2 hard cooked eggs, chopped
1-3 cup nut meats, chopped
1-4 teaspoon lemon juice
2 tablespoons finely chopped celery
3 tablespoons salad dressing
1-8 teaspoon salt
To serve slice crosswise as if cutting regular slice of bread.

Strawberry Pie De Luxe
from Mrs. J. A. Jordan, 408 Croghan Street, Lawrenceville, Ga.

1 quart strawberries
1-1/2 cups sugar
1-8 pound butter
1 cup medium cream
Pastry
Method: Make ordinary biscuit dough and roll thin. Cut 8 strips 4 inches long, 2 inches wide. Bake on a cookie sheet to medium brown. Line a loaf pan with unbaked strips and on this put about 1-3 of the sweetened berries. Put four baked strips, another 1-3 berries and so on with remainder of strips and berries, placing four unbaked strips on top. Dot with butter, and bake until brown. Remove from oven and add cream, raising crust with fork to let cream spread over berries. Return to oven and let steam 5 minutes.

OFFICERS SELECTED BY PYTHIAN SISTERS

Mrs. Ethel Haupt, Savannah, Named Grand Chief in Georgia.

MACON, Ga., May 18.—(AP)—Mrs. Ethel Haupt, of Savannah, became grand chief of the Grand Temple of Pythian Sisters of Georgia in the closing session of a two-day meeting of that organization here today.
Other officers elected were: Past grand chief, Mrs. Emma Dowell, Savannah; grand senior, Mrs. Pauline Weisser, Waycross; grand junior, Mrs. Mattie Pitts, Columbus; grand manager, Mrs. Maude Papot, Savannah; grand mistress of records and correspondence, Mrs. Annie W. Sultre, Savannah; grand mistress of finance, Mrs. Annie Akin, Savannah; grand protector, Mrs. Mary Ludwig; grand outer guard, Mrs. Elizabeth Schmitt, Augusta; state press correspondent, Mrs. Mattie Sanders, Savannah; senior supreme representative, Mrs. Felix Waters, Savannah; alternate, Mrs. Annie W. Sultre, Savannah; Junior supreme representative, Mrs. Gladys Corbett, Columbus; alternate, Mrs. Effie Chapman, Ludowick.

The officers were installed this afternoon by Mrs. Gladys Corbett, of Columbus, acting as supreme chief, assisted by Mrs. Freda Waters, acting as supreme senior, and Mrs. Addie Komenan, of Savannah, acting as supreme manager.

The past grand chief was presented with a jewel from the grand chapter, and other gifts were exchanged by officers of the lodge.

The Pythian Sisters voted to meet in Macon again next year.

BAILEY ATTACKS WAGE-HOUR LAW

No Sympathy for South, Governor Declares.
LITTLE ROCK, Ark., May 18.—(AP)—Governor Carl E. Bailey said today there was "no sympathy within the administration of the wage-hour law for southern conditions."
His comment was in reply to a press conference query if he would present any definite Arkansas problem at the Southern Governors' Conference in Memphis Saturday.

Asserting he had no specific problem to present to the conference, Bailey said:
"It is well for those interested in southern welfare to consider what can be done to the south under the wage-hour law. There is no acute problem facing the south as a result of the current provisions of the measure, but there is no sympathy within the administration of the wage-hour law for southern conditions."

Shoemaker Jr., Norman J. Walton and Nicholas A. Zamborisky.

Other Atlanta ROTC students who will take the six-week course this summer include Joe H. Hillsman Jr., a student at the Vanderbilt University School of Medicine, who will go to Jefferson Barracks, Mo., and Carl M. Allen Jr., and Walter C. Goodpasture, coast artillery students at The Citadel, who will train at Fort Barrancas.

Corps Area headquarters also announced that Second Lieutenant Bruce Crawford, infantry reserve, Milledgeville, had been promoted to first lieutenant, and that orders assigning Major Will H. Gordon to Tulsa, Okla., from Fort McPherson, had been rescinded.

ESCALLOPED CUCUMBERS.

Make the most of cucumbers while they are here in abundance and the cheapest they've been this season. Here is odd recipe for escalloped cucumbers: Pare and slice three medium-sized cucumbers and arrange in a buttered baking dish that has been rubbed with a cut bud of garlic. Sprinkle a few crumbs between the layers, season with pepper, salt and a bit of sugar, dot with butter, sprinkle with a few drops of onion juice and sift grated cheese over the top. Around the side introduce four tablespoons of cream. Bake until delicately browned in a medium oven.

MOVE IN, FOLKS! LIVING COSTS DROP MOST IN ATLANTA

Atlanta led 32 large American cities in the decline in the cost of living for families of wage-earners and lower-salaried workers, according to the Labor Department report announced yesterday at Washington.

The decrease in this city was 1.2 per cent for the period from December 15 to March 15. All groups of items included in the survey declined in cost except fuel and light.

Percentage decreases in other southern cities were Jacksonville, 0.5; Norfolk, 0.8; Richmond, 0.8; Savannah, 1.1; Birmingham, 0.4; Memphis, 0.9; Mobile and New Orleans, 0.2.

'Jim Farley' Models for 'Donkey Tag Week'

"What big ears you've got, Jimmie!" Miss Dorothy Dennis, of the woman's division of the Democratic party, might be saying as she smiles in posing for the inauguration of the "Donkey Tag" sales campaign. This Democratic donkey belongs to Fulton county but is modeling for the party to help raise funds. He's so loyal he even bears the name of the party leader, Jimmie Farley. Jimmie hopes other loyal Democrats will buy Democratic insignias during "Donkey Tag Week"—May 18-25.

Women's Democratic Club Opens Donkey Tag Sale Campaign Today

Members of the Fulton County Club of the women's division of the Democratic party organization of the state of Georgia will sell Donkey Tags today in an effort to raise funds to perpetuate the work of the party both in Georgia and in Washington.

Mrs. J. A. Rollison, of Waycross, is chairman of the statewide drive which will last through May 25 by proclamation of Governor Rivers.

Chairman James L. Gillis, of the Georgia Democratic executive committee, yesterday urged all party members in the state to support the donkey tag campaign of the woman's division of the party. The drive was described by Gillis as a chance to every Democrat in the state to express party loyalty by contributing.

Enthusiastic in his endorsement of the plan was Zach Arnold, vice chairman of the state Democratic executive committee, who also urged Georgians to support this drive.

Today's recipe for your cool crisp SALAD BOWL

Tomatoes - Stringbeans - Lettuce - Onion Rings
Olives - Green Peas - Hard-cooked Eggs

Cut lettuce, quarter tomatoes. Drain water off of stringbeans and green peas. Halve the eggs. Use small mixed olives. Chill all ingredients in the refrigerator.

In the salad bowl, mix 2/3 cup Wesson Oil, 1/3 cup vinegar or lemon juice, salt and pepper. Place the chilled salad ingredients in the salad bowl and gently toss them so that every piece is well coated.

Every day Wesson Oil is the one ingredient important in your Salad Bowl because pure, mild Wesson Oil brings out all the clear flavors we love so well.

JAYCEES TO TALK COUNTY MERGERS AT MEETING TODAY

Friends of Plan Cite Its Economy Features; Foes Attack Loss of Small Counties' Power.

Representatives of the 31 Junior Chambers of Commerce in Georgia are expected to attend the citizens' meeting called for 11 o'clock this morning by the Atlanta Junior Chamber of Commerce to plan a county merger campaign, M. A. Brenner, chairman of the Junior Chamber's governmental affairs committee, announced yesterday.

The meeting will be held in assembly room of the Chamber of Commerce building at Pryor street and Auburn avenue. All Georgians interested in the movement are asked to attend.

Termed Solution.
The Junior Chamber announced its intention to urge consolidation of Georgia's multiple counties last week, while the state association of county commissioners was meeting in Savannah.

Brenner issued a statement commenting that it was absurd "to reduce taxes in one place, and then double them in another," adding that the practical solution of most of the counties' problems was consolidation.

Economy Cited.
Since then, his proposal has been strongly indorsed by some groups, and as strongly opposed by others, while politicians maintained a cautious silence.

The chief talking point of the friends of consolidation has been economy and increased governmental service. Reduction of the number of Georgia's 158 counties to 40 or 60 odd, they say, will save from six to 11 million dollars annually, and permit the strong local units of government remaining to render improved service to their taxpayers.

Foes Argue.
A physician with a leaning toward political economy has estimated that if the number of counties were reduced to 60, enough money would be saved to give every one of the 60 counties an able and well-equipped health office, that could efficiently battle malaria, pellagra and other Georgia ills.

Foes of the plan admit that dollars will be saved, "but only a few thousand," not enough to balance the surrender of power the smaller counties hold over the larger through the county unit system.

Friends of the plan call the county unit system "an irritating and undemocratic device, which in spite of all political power can do, has crumbled before the onslaught of economic forces."

U. S. WILL PUT 100,000 UNDER ARMS THIS YEAR

WASHINGTON, May 18.—(P)—The United States will have more men under arms this summer than at any time since World War troops were disbanded.

Army officials made the estimate today in announcing a detailed schedule of war games for regular troops and national guardsmen involving about 100,000 officers and men.

All together, the army expects to train 460,000 regulars, guardsmen, reservists and civilians in field maneuvers and camps, and 10,000 officers and 110,000 enlisted men of the navy.

C.M.T.C. AT CHARLESTON HALTED BY PARALYSIS

CHARLESTON, S. C., May 18.—(P)—Headquarters at Fort Moultrie announced today cancellation of plans for holding a Citizens' Military Training Camp there from June 15 to July 14, explaining that the infantile paralysis situation in this vicinity was responsible.

About 150 young men from South Carolina and Georgia had enrolled for the scheduled month of training.

Police To Auction Unclaimed Articles

Everything from auto parts to zithers will be auctioned in the semi-annual "ol' hoss sale" conducted at police headquarters at 10 o'clock in the morning, May 30, it was announced last night.

The miscellaneous material—including 50 bicycles and 1,000 penknives—represents unclaimed articles gathered by police during the past six months.

2 DAMAGE SUITS FILED AGAINST NAZI CONSUL

NEW ORLEANS, May 18.—(P)—Baron Edgar von Spiegel, consul general of Germany at New Orleans, today was named defendant in two suits for $20,000 damages filed in federal court as the aftermath of an automobile accident in St. Petersburg, Fla., March 18, 1938.

The plaintiffs, Mrs. Ivy L. Pugh, automobile owner, and Lovell Lautenisher, driver of the car, claimed they were injured in a collision with the German's machine.

Mrs. Pugh asked $650 for damages to her car, $300 for doctor and hospital expenses, and $9,050 for injuries. Lautenisher asked $100 for doctors and medicine costs and $9,900 for personal injuries.

University Awards Them Military Honors

BURGLAR OF BEL-AIR SENTENCED TO LIFE

LOS ANGELES, May 18.—(P)—William Borton, alias Ralph Graham, "Phantom Burglar of Bel-Air," who admitted theft of a million dollars' worth of jewels and furs, pleaded guilty today to burglary and was sentenced to a life term as an habitual criminal.

Borton, who took police to the homes of film celebrities of the Bel-Air district which he said he had burglarized, admitted in a subdued voice he had served prison terms in Pennsylvania, Arizona and New Jersey.

ANTI-GRAVITY AREA IS FOUND IN BRAIN

Region Demonstrated Before A. M. A. as Enabling Upright Posture.

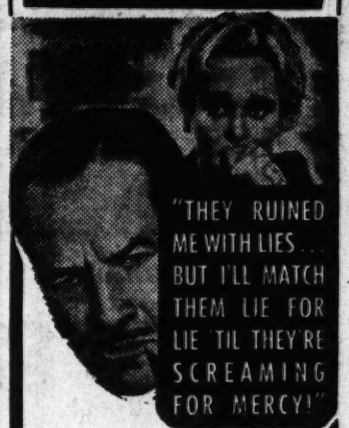

By the North American Newspaper Alliance.

ST. LOUIS, May 18.—An anti-gravity area in the brain which enables one to stand upright voluntarily was demonstrated for the first time before the American Medical Association here.

The newly found "strip area" apparently is the center of action for the so-called extension muscles of the limbs, chiefly the legs. It lies in the fore region of the brain, directly in front of the narrow motor region which enables man to control the movements of all the voluntary muscles of the body.

Control of specific motions, such as those of the tongue and throat, are essential before an ability like speech can be developed. Presumably along with this was developed the brain function of standing erect by an act of the will—the function of the new-found organ. The discovery of the new area was revealed in an exhibit illustrating the latest developments of research on the architecture of the brain by Drs. John F. Fulton, Carlyle F. Jacobsen and Margaret A. Kennard, of Yale University and Washington University, St. Louis. The anti-gravity area was first suspected, Dr. Fulton said, through experiments by Dr. Marion Hines at Johns Hopkins University three years ago.

TRAINMEN ADVOCATE THIRD TERM FOR F.D.R.

CLEVELAND, May 18.—(AP)—By resolution, the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen in convention today urged President Roosevelt to seek a third term. The convention also voted to give wide publicity to what a resolution termed the "obnoxious labor record" of Senator Robert A. Taft, Republican, Ohio, in the event he becomes a Republican presidential candidate.

Roast Leg of Lamb Is Festive Meat Garnished With Fruit and Mint Leaves

Sally Saver Suggests

Lamb is a delicately flavored meat, and though it isn't at all expensive, often it is chosen to grace the table at a very special dinner. Definitely leg of lamb is considered in the high-brow class of meats.

This week lamb legs (and this means genuine lamb) are cheap enough for the family to have the delight of sitting down to Sunday dinner with roasted leg of lamb as the piece de resistance. Mint sauce or mint jelly seems to me an absolute necessity with roast lamb. And for vegetables I suggest buttered or creamed broccoli or green lima beans. Asparagus also is nice with lamb and parsley potatoes are considered by many a requisite.

A green salad, such as chicory and watercress, or stuffed green pepper rings and cucumbers or endive or slaw, go well with lamb. And for dessert I think for this Sunday perhaps you should have a rhubarb Betty because you should not pass up a single opportunity for serving rhubarb in the spring. By many it is considered a spring tonic.

Rhubarb Betty.
Brown a pint of soft bread crumbs in a quarter of a cup of melted butter. Peel and cut half-inch pieces enough rhubarb to fill a quart measure, butter a pudding dish and cover the bottom with a thin layer of the crumbs. Cover with rhubarb and sprinkle thickly with sugar and a teaspoon of grated lemon rind. Add a second layer of crumbs, then of rhubarb, sprinkle this with sugar and a dash of cinnamon. Repeat making layers until the dish is full. The top layer should be crumbs. Pour over a cup of boiling water, and dot with bits of butter. Cover closely and bake in moderate oven one hour. Remove cover and finish baking. Serve warm with hot sauce, or it may be served cold with cream or whipped cream.

ANCHOVY CANAPES.
Blend together one package of cream cheese and one tablespoon mayonnaise. Add two tablespoons chopped anchovies, one tablespoon chopped parsley. Spread on rounds of bread which have been sautéed in butter or toasted. Garnish center with a slice of stuffed olive.

Cortez, cruel Spanish explorer and conqueror, sailed about in ships made of mahogany found in Santo Domingo.

HOW TO ROAST A LEG OF LAMB.

Do not have the fell (which is the skin covering) removed when you buy a leg of lamb. Sprinkle the meat with salt and pepper, put the leg, cut side up, on a rack in an open roasting pan. Do not add water, do not cover. Allow 30 to 35 minutes to the pound for roasting. If you use a thermometer, make an incision so that the bulb reaches the center of the roast, but don't let it rest on fat or bone. When the thermometer registers 175 degrees, lamb is medium done; at 180 degrees it is well done.

FOOD HELPS

Here are some recipes, and household suggestions:

Stuffed Carrots.

Scrape large carrots and cook them whole in boiling salted water until tender. Scoop out the centers with an apple corer and fill with a mixture of chopped ham and cooked green beans seasoned with a few drops of onion juice. Place carrots in a buttered baking dish and over them pour one cup of medium white sauce. Sprinkle with buttered crumbs and bake in the oven until the crumbs are lightly browned and carrots thoroughly heated.

Graham Gems.

(Using Buttermilk.)
1 cup Graham flour.
1 cup flour.
1 teaspoon soda.
1-4 cup dark brown sugar.
1-4 teaspoon salt.
1 egg, beaten.
3 tablespoons fat, melted.
1-2 cup milk (optional).
Mix the ingredients and beat only until the ingredients are blended. Half-fill greased muffin pans and bake for 15 minutes in a moderate oven. Serve hot.
Relish Sauce.
1-4 cup mayonnaise.
2 ripe olives, chopped.
1-4 cup chili sauce.
1 teaspoon minced onions.
1 teaspoon minced parsley.
1 teaspoon lemon juice.
Mix and chill the ingredients.
Sour Cream Cabbage-Fruit Salad.
3 cups shredded cabbage.
1-2 cup cubed pineapple.
1-4 cup cubed peaches.
1-8 teaspoon salt.
1-4 teaspoon paprika.
1-4 teaspoon celery salt.
1-2 cup sour cream.
2 tablespoons pineapple juice.
2 tablespoons vinegar.
2 tablespoons granulated sugar.
Mix all the ingredients together in a bowl. Chill and serve.

Refrigerator.
Keep the refrigerator sweet and clean by regularly washing sides, top, bottom and shelves in hot water containing a generous pinch of baking soda or borax. Then place a stick of charcoal on the upper shelf to counteract all food odors.
Egg Yolks.
Never set egg yolks away in the refrigerator without protecting them by adding enough cold water to cover them. When ready to use them, pour off the water and the yolk will be as fresh as when taken from the egg shell.

KITCHEN COMMENTS.

When browning chicken or chops, lay a piece of wax paper across the top of skillet during the browning. This will prevent grease from popping out on the range or wall.

OLIVES STUFFED WITH CHEESE.

Remove the pimento from large stuffed olives, mince and mix with a soft, creamy cheese and refill the olives. Chill thoroughly and serve with other appetizers or canapés.

HOUSE APPROVES RIVER, HARBOR ACT

Senate To Get $3-Million-Dollar Measure.
WASHINGTON, May 18.—(AP)—A bill authorizing river and harbor projects throughout the country at a cost of $83,728,100 received the approval of the house today and was sent to the senate.

Economy-minded members previously had struck from the measure two proposals endorsed by the rivers and harbors committee: A $23,700,000 dam at Umatilla rapids on the Columbia river and $12,500,000 for starting a waterway linking the Tennessee and Tombigbee rivers.

Otherwise, except for a few minor amendments, the house followed closely the committee's recommendations.

A NEW ICED COFFEE.
Did you know that adding orange to iced coffee gives it a new and delicious flavor? To three cups of strong, freshly-made coffee, add one-half cup of orange syrup. Shake in a shaker with chopped ice; pour into tall glasses and garnish with a spoonful of whipped cream on top.

TOWER TO REJECT MILLEDGEVILLE'S DISCHARGED CASES

Fulton Jailer Reiterates Stand; Asserts No Room Even for Those Coming Through Usual Channel

Patients discharged as cured from the state hospital at Milledgeville will not be accepted at the Fulton county jail, it was reiterated by A. B. (Bud) Foster, chief jailer, yesterday.

Foster asserted "We haven't room for those who are sent to us through the regular 'feeder' channels now, and, therefore, could not accept any of those who may be returned from the state hospital."

At the same time, Foster disclosed that he had accepted 61-year-old Frank Parker who was returned to Georgia from California as a matter of "comity" between states, pointing out that other states accept their mental defectives when they are returned.

Fulton county commissioners continued adamant yesterday in their contention that they are not responsible for cured mental cases unless they are paupers. The state contends it is the county's responsibility to accept cases returned to it.

It was indicated yesterday that a written opinion of the county legal department will be asked on the matter. In the meantime there is an oral opinion upholding the commissioners on which Commissioner Chairman Ed L. Almond and other members of the body are standing.

from Berlin have reported a softened tone in Nazi official circles, and Mussolini has declared that war is "unnecessary."

The Institute has conducted four separate surveys in the last two years to test American apprehension of war. Each survey asked the same question:

"Do you believe there will be a war between any of the big European countries this year?"

The trend of sentiment follows:

	Yes	No
January, 1937	16%	84%
January, 1938	44	56
April	51	49
Today	32	68

As the results show, there was a gradual increase in war fear between January, 1937, and January, 1938, the latter date being after the peace of Munich. When, several months later, Hitler seized the rest of Czechoslovakia, apprehen-

Stop or Go? Hemphill-State Street Traffic Lights Prove Puzzle for Poor Motorist

What to do? What to do? This is Graves Hillard, the picture of bewilderment, as he peers up at the baffling traffic lights at the intersection of Hemphill avenue, State and Fifth streets. Before him are two traffic signals—one blaring red and one brilliant green—telling him to "Stop!" and to "Go!" at one and the same time. Countless other motorists encounter the same confusion, caused by being faced with signals for both Hemphill avenue and State street traffic. It is one of a number of traffic light situations which befuddle motorists.

Motorists using Hemphill avenue in and out of Atlanta crane their necks and tear their hair when they come to the intersection with State and Fifth streets, where a new system of traffic signal lights has been put up. Half the time, two separate lights, one red and the other green, greet them. Which to obey? Stop or go? This confusion is caused by traffic signals for Hemphill avenue and State streets being strung on a single wire, thus revealing the signals for all streets to the motorists. In the picture, the light on the extreme right is green for Hemphill avenue traffic toward town. The next light is red to stop State street traffic. On the pole next to the store on the left is another light, red, to stop Fifth street traffic. The other two lights (backs seen) are also red and green. The system is this: Hemphill gets the green light, then red. State street has the opposite, then both lights on the wire turn red and the Fifth street light goes green. Residents of the neighborhood ogle at the mad scramble of cars. If the lights were labeled or placed at the street mouths, confusion would be ended, they say.

THOUSANDS OF NAZI TROOPS IN DANZIG

Arrive Quietly in Free City by Sea in Guise of Tourists.

LONDON, May 18.—(UP)—Several thousand Nazi stormtroopers, including nearly 3,000 members of Fuehrer Adolf Hitler's "liebestandarte" bodyguard, have arrived quietly in the Free City of Danzig in recent days, according to confidential diplomatic advices reaching London tonight.

The stormtroopers, identified as mostly "S. S." elite guards, were said to have reached Danzig by sea from Stettin, Germany, aboard vessels of the German East Prussian service. They traveled by sea, the reports said, to avoid passing through the Polish corridor with its heavy concentrations of Polish armed forces.

All of the stormtroopers entered Danzig in the guise of tourists, it was said, and their presence in the Free City was kept as inconspicuous as possible.

The estimates of the strength of the stormtroop arrivals ranged between 5,000 and 20,000, but it was believed here that the figure probably was nearer 5,000.

that they would not be relegated to minority status in an independent Arab state.

It is admitted freely that Palestine has given a new and developing unity to the 450,000 Jews now assembled here. A spiritual and geographical unity is linked to the belief of the Jews that this is their last stand.

More than 90 per cent of Palestine Jews, however, still are openly and obviously behind the official policy of restraint and patience.

Yet there is speculation as to how far the revisionist extremists have a secret following.

MONTREAL GREETES KING AND QUEEN

French-speaking school children, of the second largest French-speaking city in the world, sang themselves hoarse on "God Save the King."

An another stadium 15,000 English-speaking children paid similar tribute to the King and Queen whose dominions include this city, one of the world's greatest inland ports.

It seemed the King and Queen probably had seen more school children in the past two days than they would have opportunity to see in many a day.

Indians Salute King.

Yesterday at Quebec, where they began their month tour, they were greeted by 35,000 children singing in French and English.

At another point on the royal route that was pursued as soon as their majesties arrived, Canadian Indians in full-feathered regalia saluted their monarch with arms extended to their great white father from over the seas.

In ordinary workaday life, many of these Montreal Indians, the Caughnawagas, are steel workers, who find employment on bridges and skyscrapers the world over.

The King and Queen arrived not in the heart of the city, at Great Windsor station, but in an outlying suburb where thousands of Canadians had an open view of the ceremonial of the meeting of royalty and officialdom. The same sort of ceremony will be enacted at 50 places across the dominion, to the Pacific and back again.

Queen Elizabeth, fresh and smiling, was just inside the door of the observation car platform when the train stopped. Dressed in a robin's-egg blue costume with cloak and hat to match, gray slippers over a darker shade of sheer stockings, a double strand of pearls and white fox fur piece, she revealed the third costume of her North American tour.

She showed no indication of fatigue after yesterday's strenuous program at Quebec, nor did the King who stood just behind her in the undress uniform of a British admiral. He wore a white duck cap, like a yachting cap, instead of the full dress gold-braided headpiece in which he came ashore from the Empress of Australia.

Mayor Greets King.

Mayor Camille Houde, of Montreal, wearing the heavy gold chain of his office around his neck, stepped forward and shook hands with the King, and presented his wife who curtsied low.

Then the Queen stepped forward to meet the first citizens of Montreal.

Cannons were booming, and "God Save the King" from the regimental band of the Canadian Hussars brought every person with sight and sound to stiff attention.

Inspects Guard.

Smartly the King strode in company of Captain S. S. T. Cantile, of the Canadian Black Watch, and Captain J. A. Leclair, of the Fusiliers, for the guard inspection.

Behind the troops, in an open field, the people cheered, raising a new whoop each time the King's slim figure emerged at the end of a company front.

The King and Queen left Quebec at 8:32 a. m., Atlanta time, this morning, and with but one 17-minute stop at Three Rivers, arrived here at 1:15 p. m.

Sloan Blames Idle Capital Upon Lack of Confidence

WASHINGTON, May 18.—(AP)—Alfred P. Sloan Jr., General Motors chairman, told the monopoly committee today the principal obstacle to putting idle capital to work was "lack of confidence in the future profit-making possibilities of industry."

"We have to have more profit in industry," Sloan said. "We have to encourage people to put money into industry. It must be made more flexible so people can shift money from one thing to another."

Talking to reporters later, Sloan said he had meant that "We must reduce the barriers that have been erected against the expansion of private enterprise."

He proposed "reconstruction of our tax structure" for the purpose especially of eliminating the capital gains tax to provide "maximum flexibility so that capital can flow freely into new enterprise."

Testifying before the monopoly committee, the chairman of the board of General Motors said that when equipment is replaced and plants modernized or expanded, his company uses its own earnings.

"In the 18-year period (of the company's history)," he said, "there has been substantially no outside financing."

The same situation prevails with United Aircraft Corporation, said Frederick B. Rentschler, chairman of the board.

"Our company," he told the committee, "has demonstrated its ability to expand its operations to meet all requirements and entirely from its earnings. We intend to continue this procedure as a matter of policy."

CONCILIATORY BID ISSUED BY POLAND

Poland, in pursuance of her "tit for tat" policy toward Germany, it was said, therefore may defect in the present situation the advisability of a gesture of goodwill such as Gazeta Polska made.

It was pointed out that a gesture of goodwill now, however indirect, would seem to indicate that Poland was reacting to a given situation—a slackening of tension from the German side.

Poland meanwhile witnessed a dramatic peasant gathering under the leadership of Vincent Witos, the famous necktieless ex-premier who was a political exile until two months ago.

Witos said Polish peasants were prepared to fight to the last to defend their country and thunderous applause greeted a declaration by Secretary Baginski, of the peasant party:

"Let Germany try to make this a war of nerves. We will show that Polish peasants have nerves of steel which do not falter."

At Paris the French government was reported in diplomatic circles to have persuaded Britain to meet Soviet Russia more than half-way in negotiations for a three-power pact.

These sources said Britain had veered around to original French proposals and agreed that France and Britain would aid Russia if she were attacked in defending Poland, Rumania or Turkey from aggression.

JEWES ARE EXHORTED TO FIGHT FOR LAND

JERUSALEM, May 18.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press.) "Jews of Palestine! The time has come for action! The time has come to fight until Palestine is wholly ours! To arms against the Arab enemy, fighting a war that will not end even if an Arab state is proclaimed!"

The voice is from an illegally-operated radio sponsored by the Jewish National Military Organization, a secret off-shoot of the Jewish Revisionist party.

The message and strident appeal is not new—it long has been preached by extreme rightists among the Holy Land's Jews. It has a new and timely application, however, in view of Britain's new plan for an independent Arab state in Palestine.

"What can they do about it?" is the question often heard regarding the insistence of Palestine Jews from 42,000 to 46,000 tons. He said he assumed that the information came through naval intelligence and that he had confidence in its authenticity.

Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, voiced the opinion that "when the facts are known, it will be found that Japan is not building 45,000-ton ships."

"Have Ship First."

Senator Connally, Democrat, Texas, argued that the United States should not "sit around waiting for Japan or some other nation to build a 45,000-ton battleship."

"If we're going to have one," he contended, "we should have it first."

Shortly before approving the measure, the senate defeated on a voice vote a motion by Senator King, Democrat, Utah, to send it back to the appropriations committee with instructions to reduce it by 10 per cent. On the final vote, 49 Democrats, 11 Republicans and one independent supported the bill while five Democrats, seven Republicans, one Farmer-Laborite and one Progressive voted "no."

Sensors George and Russell voted for the bill.

Plane Fund Included.

Among the funds in the measure is $46,898,000 for the purchase of 500 modern fighting planes.

A provision in the bill banning navy purchases of Argentine canned corn beef previously had excited senate controversy, but it was approved today without a murmur of dissent.

Also approved was an amendment by the senate appropriations committee eliminating a $500,000 house-constructed item for beginning construction of a rigid dirigible.

The committee said there was some doubt as to the military value of big dirigibles.

BEN HUIET DEFIES ORDER OF RIVERS

appointed by the board which now seeks to replace him with Virgil Adams.

Announcement by Senator Paul Lindsay, James' lawyer, that James will give Huiet until Saturday to relent, otherwise they will file a mandamus in the Fulton superior court.

Announcement by Harold Sheats, Williamson's attorney, that the referee is illegal.

Announcement by A. L. Henson, counsel for Huiet, that the commissioner just won't take James back.

Announcement by Governor Rivers that he is "very anxious to get the Labor Department controversy settled."

Announcement by an attache of the Governor's office that the above mentioned 1931 act is on the chief executive's desk.

The Huiet-James controversy has been going on for several months. Huiet first fired the director and Governor Rivers ordered him reinstated. The commissioner then abolished the job in the name of economy and Governor Rivers again ordered reinstatement. Yesterday Huiet fired him all over again on the ground that he had not passed the merit examination before he was appointed.

The board of review's sally against Referee Williamson is the first attempt to oust him. Williamson said yesterday it was a repercussion of Huiet's war on James, alleging that the board of review is friendly to James.

BOY PATROLMEN STORM NEW YORK

Square brought the entourage face to face with the subway at its busiest. Youthful comment was confined to the speed and the cramped quarters.

After marching to Radio City patrolmen rode by express elevator 73 stories into the sky where they saw the world's largest city lying in panorama. The NBC broadcast of "District Attorney" was watched and, later, the new mysteries of television were explained.

But to schoolboy patrolmen the thrill so far was eating on a diner and discussing the potentialities of the array of silverware which faced them.

Sensation of this trip to the World's Fair, which will be seen tomorrow, was platinum blond Barbara Cook, 11, of 437 North Highland avenue, who led patrol girls, of which there are 15, in singing which entertained the adult contingent composed of guards and police officials.

In New York eyes are wide and ears are open so that sights may be described in detail when we get back home. Particularly attentive are the lads from E. Rivers school, who plan to tell Patrolman Jimmy Brigan all about it. On Wednesday morning, before departing, Jimmy was quarantined for the mumps.

QUINTS ARE TAUGHT TO BOW TO ROYALTY

CALLANDER, Ont., May 18.—(Canadian Press)—The Dionne quintuplets have been taught to bow, but that is the only special training they will receive for their presentation to the King and Queen in Toronto next Monday.

The quintes are not being loaded with instructions on what to do and say to their majesties, Dr. Allan Roy Dufosse said today.

ANTS IN THE KITCHEN CUPBOARD?

How to get rid of them. First, keep shelves and cupboards free of food particles, sugar, etc. Then, what attracts ants. Second, get a can of Bee Brand Insect Powder. Sprinkle it on the cupboard floor, in corners and along the back edge of shelves; also back of and under the sink, stove and refrigerator. Blow it into cracks and crevices, back and under wall boards. Build powder barriers between the ants' hiding places and the spots where they feed. Outside the house, sprinkle Bee Brand Powder around ant holes, wherever they are found. Repeat these directions regularly, and you'll soon be free of ants.

Bee Brand really kills ants, roaches and other crawling insects quickly—but it's entirely safe to use around the house. Based on the genuine Bee Brand Insect Powder—in the red and yellow can. It's sold with a guarantee of satisfaction, or your money back. Three sizes: 10¢, 25¢, 50¢.

NOTE: You can also kill ants, roaches, as well as flies and mosquitoes, with Bee Brand Insect Spray. Read directions on can.

Cost of City Government Increases

Jumps $1.20 Per Capita From 1936 to 1937, According to Report of the Bureau of Census.

Maintenance and operation costs for Atlanta's city government jumped $1.20 per capita from 1936 to 1937, according to a preliminary report released yesterday by Director William L. Austin of the Bureau of Census, Department of Commerce, Washington, and 42.4 per cent of all expenditures went to the public school system.

The 1937 cost was $29.22 per capita as against $28.02 based on an estimated population of 280,400 as of July 1, 1933.

Atlanta's schools received $3,474,114 of the $8,194,668 expended in operation and maintenance of various departments for the year, the report showed. The next most expensive department of the municipality was the police division, which got 10.8 per cent or $881,557. Firefighters placed third, costing 9.1 per cent of the total or $745,139.

Increased Cost Cited. B. Graham West, city comptroller, yesterday pointed out the increased cost amounted to approximately $1,200,000 a year which included a two-mill addition tax levy and increases in water and sanitary rates.

In addition to the $8,194,668 expended for operation and maintenance must be added $509,417 for interest on general city obligations, $45,078 for interest on short term notes, $4,355 for interest on special assessment debt, and $1,723,130 for capital outlay, making a total $10,476,648.

Revenue receipts were $10,717,485 for 1937 representing $38.22 per capita as compared with $29.67 for 1936, according to the report.

13-Million Debt Listed. Gross outstanding debt was listed at $13,012,800 or $46.41 per capita. It was comprised of $12,940,000 in bonded obligations and $72,800 in special debts. The net bonded debt was carried at $11,948,037, or $42.61 per capita.

A total of $618,804 was expended for the water supply system, but the department turned $1,494,673 into the city treasury. Earnings from the enterprise were listed at $2,345,349. Gross debt of the system was carried at $2,360,000 or $8.42 per capita, while the net indebtedness was $2,159,608, or $7.70 per capita, the bureau report said.

Airport expenditures were $20,000.

379 for the year, while earnings were catalogued at $10,466. The report received a contribution of $9,956 from the general city fund.

370 Million Taxable Property. The report disclosed 1937 value of taxable property subject to ad valorem taxes was $370,791,329, or $1,322 per capita, while the value on which the state and county collected taxes was carried at $258,496,900.

A total of $10,537,758 was levied against these valuations for all purposes for the fiscal year ending December 31, 1937, of which $6,260,185 was for the city; $1,292,464 for the state, and $2,985,089 for Fulton county. The per capita levy for all purposes was $37.58 in 1937, and $31.71 in 1936. In 1926 it was $40.97 per capita.

Included in the $3,474,114 total expenditures for the schools were state school funds appropriated directly to the school department, examination costs of the health department for school children amounting to about $36,000 and interest and sinking fund on outstanding school bonds, West explained.

Other large expenditures for 1937 included sanitation and waste removal, $508,871, or 6.2 per cent; fire department, $713,440 or 8.7 per cent; highways, $458,121 or 5.6 per cent; general government, $399,132 or 4.9 per cent.

Total revenue receipts were listed at $10,717,485 of which $5,976,471, or 55.8 per cent, came from the general property taxes. Other major sources of revenue were business licenses, $717,642; water and other public service enterprises, $1,494,674 or 13.9 per cent; service charges for current services, $857,568, or 8 per cent.

GENERAL MOSELEY ACCUSED IN PROBE

American-Jewish war, for that is all that it is, a war fought with money and propaganda instead of rifles.

(The United Press quoted the alleged letter further as follows: "Right after the first of the year it is the intention to call a small conference, say about 25, in some place as Chicago, quietly, and discuss the matter of what we are going to do about this thing...")

Out of that will come only a program—the rest we will do on the basis of what the general thinks can be done at the moment... I believe as you do that it will take military action to get this gang out and the organization must be built around a propaganda organization now that can in a few hours be turned into a military fighting force. That's the idea of the boss also, but it must be kept on the Q.T."

The conversations, it was said, consisted in part of predictions of events which later came to pass, such as the movement of the American fleet from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and into them, Dies said, was woven anti-Semitic material.

Dies remarked: "This is one of the most clever and dangerous methods that can be devised because in predicting some events that did come to pass they gave plausibility to statements that followed."

The chairman, who did most of the talking for the committee, said that Gilbert had spent more than $8,000 to finance dissemination of reports of conversations in the New York club, which was not identified. The committee was informed the reports were brought to Gilbert by a club waiter.

The committee said it learned that Gilbert sent these "confidential reports" to Campbell at Owensboro, Ky., who, in turn, disseminated the reports to a list of "key people" throughout the country.

Campbell testified, Dies said, that he sent the reports to 40 persons. Committee investigators reported that he sent Moseley's speeches over the country, as well as addresses by Father Charles Coughlin, Detroit priest, to a mailing list of about 200.

Dies said that "in all fairness to Gilbert," he should report that Gilbert had testified that he was not anti-Semitic, and denied that he was interested in "stirring up racial hatred."

"No Use for Germany." The Texas said the New Yorker expressed a "sincere" belief that a revolution might occur in this country and that he thought he was "rendering patriotic service." Gilbert has "no use for Germany or Italy," Dies added.

The testimony showed, Dies added, that Gilbert, in addition to the $8,000, had sent Campbell $1,000 to build a "retreat" in Kentucky in case of a disturbance in this country.

Dies gave in narrative form this version of the testimony: Gilbert claimed to have received certain "highly inflammatory and highly prejudicial" statements from an informer who reported on conversations in the New York club whose membership included government officials. Gilbert expressed belief the man was a club waiter because he entered through an employees' door.

Gilbert sent to Campbell the so-called reports, predicting in advance, the sponsors claim, these three events:

1. The appearance of a French air mission to the American planes 12 days before the crash of a plane on the west coast disclosed the mission's presence here.

2. The sending of James Roosevelt, son of the President, to England 10 days before the trip became public knowledge.

3. The commutation of sentence of two of four young men sentenced to the electric chair in New York state.

Campbell, reportedly operating under the business name of Business Engineers' Associates, sent Gilbert's reports to a "confidential list" of persons, including reserve officers in the army.

At this point, Dies remarked: "They also contained highly in-

Moseley Assailed New Deal Just Before His Retirement

Atlanta's Remarks Called Disloyal, Due to Pique, by Secretary of War Woodring; Retired Army Officer Reported Visiting in Pasadena, Cal.

Major General George Van Horn Moseley, whose residence is the Atlanta Biltmore hotel, was said there last night to be visiting in Pasadena, Cal. It was uncertain when he would return to Atlanta.

It was in Atlanta that the retired army officer openly showed his disagreement with administration policies, in a statement he made public September 30, of last year, a few hours before his retirement. The statement immediately drew fire from Washington, where Secretary of War Woodring declared Moseley's feelings to be due to pique from failure to be named as chief of staff of the army. Some of Moseley's pronouncements follow:

Plays Costly Experiments. "In addition to the lack of outstanding leadership our government has recently suffered from an indigestible mass of untried theories and ideas upon which we have lavished the greatest pecuniary appropriations in our nation's history. Many of these ideas are sound—as ideas. Some can ultimately be incorporated permanently into our system of government to its benefit and that of its citizens."

Hits White House. The general, on this occasion, again had alluded to the army in what was regarded as a political fashion, saying: "We would rest in complete security at home under the protection of the army if we knew that in an emergency it would receive proper orders from the White House."

Born in Evanston, Ill., September 28, 1874, he was commissioned a second lieutenant in the ninth cavalry upon his graduation from West Point in 1895. After duty in the Philippines he was graduated from the Army War College in 1912 and was detailed as military observer at the French and German grand maneuvers. Detailed to the general staff corps in 1915, he was ordered to the War College and the following year was appointed colonel and chief of staff of the seventh division, Pennsylvania national guard.

"During the World War he commanded the fifth field artillery with the rank of colonel and later was made temporary brigadier general and chief of the supply section of the general staff. On September 1, 1930, he was promoted to major general and the following December became deputy chief of staff, serving in that capacity until given command of the fourth corps area."

For a time after his retirement Moseley headed the Atlanta Citizens' Traffic Committee, but retired to devote himself to other affairs.

Today when doctrines subversive to American constitutional government are being preached and duly constituted civil authority is often openly flouted, the army with its unquestioned integrity and unhesitating obedience to lawful authority stands firm as the one stable element in an unstable and shifting domestic scene. That army will not fail unless it should be called upon to act in violation of all those wonderful traditions which have governed it in the past and made it what it is today.

"The army of the United States, unlike certain other armies, will never march for any leader except one lawfully appointed and acting fully and lawfully in the interest of all citizens and holding high the Stars and Stripes forever."

It was these remarks as well as inflammatory racial statements calculated to arouse racial hatred among those to whom they were disseminated.

Campbell's files, which were seized by the committee, disclosed correspondence with George Deatherage.

McWhirter inquired, Dies said, whether certain prominent persons had Jewish blood, and asked specifically about Alfred M. Landon, former Kansas governor, the wife of Secretary Hull and William Allen White, Kansas editor.

Last February, Dies said, Campbell sent a letter to John D. Hamilton, Republican national chairman, asking Hamilton for the names of the Republican national committeemen and committee women to add to his mailing list. Campbell testified today, however, that he intended to send this group only Moseley's talks. Hamilton, who reportedly replied in a cordial letter, saying that all the committeemen and committeewomen "would be glad to be on your mailing list."

Campbell, replying, said Moseley had made a speech demonstrating how the administration in Washington was "not only responsible for subversive activities" but through its "facilitating foreign policy is throwing us closer and closer to the brink of war."

Besides Campbell and Gilbert, other witnesses before the house committee today were James F. Cook, of Athens, Tenn., department commander of the American Legion in Tennessee, and Reid Brodie, president of the National Deposit Bank, Owensboro, Ky. Dies said that Cook and Brodie took no part in the anti-Semitic campaign, but merely gave the house committee information.

The Moseley letter to Campbell, telling what to do "if the Jews bump me off," was written from Atlanta, Dies said.

MOSELEY DEFENDED BY CAMELLIA CHIEF

George Deatherage Says As Far As He Knows General Heads No Group.

ST. ALBANS, W. Va., May 18.—(AP)—George Deatherage, national commander of the Knights of the White Camellia, asserted tonight "that as far as I know Major General Moseley is connected with no organization."

Deatherage, who said his organization maintains that "Judaism and Communism are synonymous terms," commented with reference to the report of Representative Dies, Democrat, Texas, on an anti-Semitic campaign in the United States:

"Dies has been inaccurate regarding cases of a similar nature. He has made charges, but has consistently refused to let those charged take the stand. There is no way possible to refute his charges."

"Jerk us up on the stand and put us under oath. That's what we want," Deatherage added. He charged Dies labeled as "un-American" all anti-Communist organizations.

Deatherage, who has headed the Knights of the White Camellia for the last four years, said:

"As far as I know, General Moseley is connected with no organization, has never supported any organization and has consistently refused to have anything to do with taking the leadership of any organization."

In response to a question, Deatherage added "I did not say he had not been considered. So have others."

their number were wounded by shots fired from revolvers in the fighting there.

Many shop windows were broken by the flying stones. The fighting climaxed a day which witnessed 175,000 Jews marching, singing, shouting and carrying placards protesting the plan to put Palestine under Arab control and end the Jewish dream of a "national home" in the Holy Land.

Many signed mobilization registration forms "for whatever action is ordered."

Special registration stations were opened throughout the Holy Land for all able-bodied Jewish men and women between 18 and 35 years but Jewish leaders declined to discuss the potentialities of the registration.

JEWS HERE TO PROTEST BRITISH 'WHITE PAPER'

In response to an urgent appeal from Dr. Solomon Goldman, president of the Zionist Organization of America, and chairman of the national emergency committee for Palestine, Atlanta Jewry will hold special services at 8:30 o'clock tonight at the Ahavath Achim synagogue, corner Washington street and Woodward avenue, to protest the recently announced British "white paper," repudiating the Balfour declaration.

Rabbi Epstein has asked Jews of all denominations, and all others interested to attend the services here.

MISTY MAN, you cannot afford to let so-called "spring fever" slow you down... or let you down!

S.S.S. Tonic may be just the "lift" you need this Spring to make you feel better and look better.

When that tired-let-down feeling begins to take hold and you slow down in your work and thinking as the day wears on, it is well to remember your precious red-blood-cells may have been reduced in number and strength.

What causes this change? Wear and strain of worry, overwork, colds, and sickness often reduce one's blood strength.

But you may rebuild this strength by restoring your blood to normal, in the absence of an organic trouble, with the famous S.S.S. Tonic.

Improves the appetite. Further, S.S.S. Tonic whets the appetite... foods taste better... natural digestive juices are stimulated, and finally, the food you eat is of more value... a very important step back to health.

At all drug stores in two sizes. You will find the larger size more economical.

FLUKER TO APPEAL
5TH DEATH PENALTY

Convicted Slayer of Atlanta Racket King To Ask Life Term.

As Odie V. Fluker, convicted slayer of Eddie Guyol, former Atlanta numbers racket king, yesterday prepared to hear the death sentence pronounced on him for the fifth time, Russell Turner, his attorney, said he will file today a petition for clemency with Governor Rivers and the state penal and parole board.

Fluker is slated to be sentenced for the fifth time, at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning, by Judge James C. Davis, of DeKalb county, who presided over the original trial.

Russell asserted that he will ask that Fluker's sentence be commuted to life imprisonment, and added that if successful, he proposes to file an extraordinary motion for a new trial predicated on newly-discovered evidence.

Guyol was shot to death in April, 1935, as he approached his automobile in the driveway of his Pelham road residence. Fluker was accused of the murder. The defense has contended that Mrs. Guyol was shown Fluker's photograph before she identified him in a "line-up" of prisoners at the Atlanta police station.

Evening College Singers Will Present Opera.

A light opera, "Yeomen of the Guard," by Gilbert and Sullivan, will be presented by the Georgia Evening College glee club at 8:30 o'clock tonight and tomorrow night at the Atlanta Woman's Club auditorium.

Miss Lillian Black takes the singing role of Elsie Maynard. The opera is under the direction of John D. Hoffman and Mrs. Arnold Gregory.

Other members of the cast are Morris Amato, Edmund Phillips, Julius Lennard, Julian Heeth, Tom Hicks, Alice Hegwood, John Singleton, Mrs. Walter Ward and Doris Berry.

ney for Gallogly, said, supported the contention that Gallogly had left the drug store after trying to dissuade Harsh from holding it up and had no part in either of the shootings.

C. B. Bray, a former road foreman at the Muscogee county prison camp, was introduced by Solicitor General John A. Boykin, who is opposing clemency for Gallogly. Bray said that Gallogly's conduct at the camp had been bad and he once was locked up a half a day for "cussing" his grandmother who had come to visit him.

Under questioning by Dyer, Bray admitted this was the only time Gallogly had become unruly and that he did hard manual labor along with other prisoners. Among statements introduced recommending clemency for Gallogly was one from E. C. Atkinson, chaplain at the Milledgeville prison, saying Gallogly had been offered $50,000 cash or $10,000 and royalties for an automobile tag devise he had invented.

Other statements urging clemency came from S. E. Deloach, Claxton, Ga.; James R. Hicks Jr., Bibb county sheriff; Jere N. Moore, newspaper editor, Milledgeville; B. H. Hardy, editor and ordinary at Barnesville; A. C. Thompson, deputy warden of Fulton county public works; Judge Paul S. Etheridge, of Fulton county superior court; W. G. Suttive, editor of the Evening States, Savannah, and Mrs. Annie H. Cooke, Thomasville.

Opposing clemency in statements introduced at the hearing were F. P. Lindley and J. F. Cobb, Powder Springs; Solicitor General H. C. Hutchens, Dallas, and B. R. Dickinson, Atlanta.

Canned Beef

The chances against being able to purchase American canned beef in Atlanta today stand at about 99 to 1; the chances against repeating the purchase are about 99 to 1 to 56. The chances are almost 1,000 to 1 that the purchase of canned beef involves a transaction stemming back to Argentina or Uruguay. Even veteran handlers of groceries say they have never seen a can of American beef.

Which makes all the more ridiculous the storm of complaint raised against the action of the President in ordering purchases of Argentine canned beef, disregarding the other elements involved. The American producers cannot compete in the American market, yet would saddle the government with the expense of an uneconomic and unsatisfactory product. Notwithstanding the fact that the purchases of the Argentine products are made from American companies operating in that country.

The President ordered the purchase of the beef from the land to the south because the cost is about one-half that of the cheapest American product; the meat is superior to that of American producers, and he realizes, if others cannot, that it is impossible for the United States to erect barriers for the protection of an uneconomic industry. This has been tried in the past and is in large part responsible for the bogging down of world commerce. So why continue the process?

Consider for a moment the interplay of trade involved in this country's relations with Argentina. In that country's trade, the United States ranks second only to Great Britain, despite the many restrictions placed upon the imports of this country because of exchange difficulties and discrimination against its exports to the United States. Incidentally, the greatest discrimination is one forced by these self-same cattle producers; that of the barring of fresh meat imports because of the existence of hoof-and-mouth disease in a small section of Argentina. Nevertheless, purchases from that country, chiefly of canned meats, are heavy enough to permit the export to that country of great amounts of industrial products—automobiles, typewriters, radios, refrigerators and like items best produced in this country. All of these things could be manufactured in quantity in Argentina, yet are not because it is more reasonable to purchase from the United States and Great Britain. But on the other hand, there has been a distinct and disturbing trend toward the construction, by American and British companies of plants in that country to get behind the trade barriers forced by similar walls in other countries, notably the United States. The roll is a long one: automobile plants, surgical supply plants, wax and kindred product plants, among others—all at the cost of American labor simply because free trade has become stagnated between nations.

The action of the President involved a few Americans who would benefit at the expense of all other Americans and would protect an industry that has proved notably unsuccessful and unable to provide a quality product. It is time for a showdown on shortsightedness of this type, and the President is to be commended for forcing the issue in an instance as striking as this one.

Confirming a Belief

There is a more or less fixed belief among psychologists, as well as among laymen, based on experience and sound judgment, that companionship with intelligent parents and playmates is the most important factor in the mental development of children.

Occasionally, however, tests are made, which, although not recommended for general usage, do indicate there still remains much to be learned in the field of child development. Two weeks ago Dr. Harold Manville Skeels, a psychologist at the University of Iowa, addressed a meeting of the American Association for Mental Deficiency. The psychologist told his audience he had taken 13 mentally retarded preschool children out of an Iowa orphanage largely populated with healthy, intelligent children. He placed the 13 children in a home for feeble-minded girls!

The inmates of this institution became greatly attracted to the newly arrived children. They lavished the mentally deficient children with a wealth of feeble-minded love. They gave them plenty of room to romp, made them toys and dolls, watched them play. Within two years, according to the amazed psychologist, the intelligence quotients of 12 of the deficient children he had planted among the feeble-minded girls rose sharply. Indeed they appeared vastly superior in intelligence to the older inmates. Seven of them were adopted and given permanent homes.

During the same period 12 normal children left by Dr. Skeels at the crowded Iowa orphanage as part of the experiment—where they were given no special affection—gradually lapsed into a condition bordering on feeble-mindedness.

The conclusion reached by Dr. Skeels, as a result of his experiment, was that children need adult affection and stimulation, more than anything else, in the development of their mental growth. It is this stimulation and affection, no matter from whom it comes, up to a certain point and age, that brings about the desired result.

Institute of Affairs

The gift of a $1,000 annual award to promote the University of Georgia's Institute of Public Affairs and Institute for the Study of Georgia Problems should add emphasis and interest to the activities and purposes of these linked efforts of the university.

The donor of the gift, Robert Wood Johnson, is a close observer of economic and public problems in this state. His position as president and chairman of the board of Johnson & Johnson, operator of the Chillicothe Mills near Gainesville, naturally brings him in close touch with all conditions affecting the welfare of Georgia and her people.

Increasing interest by the universities and institutions of learning in public affairs augurs well for the future of any state. After all, it is the men and women who enjoy the advantages of college education who should be best fitted for leadership. That the colleges are fast awakening to this fact and are providing the channels through which the necessary knowledge of public problems and conditions may be secured, is an encouraging sign.

For too long have the faculties and student bodies of many colleges and universities held themselves aloof from the hard facts of present-day life. There has been too great insistence upon the sheltered, cloistered walls idea.

That the University of Georgia is among those institutions which are leading away from this outmoded habit of thought is but in accord with the heritage of the university. The first state university in the country, it has throughout its history led in progressive education. Many of its alumni have, through the years, provided the finest leadership the state has known.

Now, with such opportunities as these twin institutes provide, the quality and quantity of that leadership must inevitably increase. From such a university there will come, for the future generations, a supply of informed youth which shall, in ever-mounting ratio, provide the haven to lift Georgia to her rightful place as a leader in modern government, as well as in sound economics, social justice and industrial supremacy.

Walter G. Cooper Sr.

The death of Walter G. Cooper Sr. concludes a long and distinguished career which will forever be inextricably bound in the history of Atlanta during the period of her most amazing municipal growth and development.

Mr. Cooper was a native of Floyd county, Georgia, but moved to Atlanta in his early manhood. He was prominent in the local newspaper field in the days when Henry W. Grady, Joel Chandler Harris, Bill Arp (his uncle) and others of like fame made Atlanta Journalism world famous. He served both on The Constitution and The Journal and was at one time editor of the Atlanta Georgian.

It was, however, when he became secretary of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, in 1902, that he began what was perhaps his greatest service to the city. A man of intense civic pride and enthusiasm, he held that position for 17 years, a period during which Atlanta's growth and alertness earned national fame for the acclaimed "Atlanta Spirit," and when the slogan "Atlanta Always Ahead," was literal truth in every undertaking or activity for the good of the city or its people.

Mr. Cooper was well known as an author. He wrote a four-volume history of Georgia and the official history of Fulton county. He was the author also, in his earlier days, of a sociological work entitled "Fate of the Middle Classes" in which he accurately foretold many of the social changes which have since come about in America.

Mr. Cooper was 79 years of age at the time of his death. He had lived to see the accomplishment of many things he had visioned for his city. He was, in the truest sense, a man of vision and enthusiasm who could conceive no finer use to which to put these gifts than in the service of his home community and her people.

Editorial of the Day

THE NEW YORK FAIR.

(From the Chicago Tribune.)

"With the strong feeling in favor of participation in a war which is developing in New York, it is a misfortune that the World's Fair is being held this year. Foreign countries at the fair have spared no expense in presenting their propaganda in the most favorable setting. Russia, which has had difficulty in finding exchange to buy American goods, is going further than any other country with an exhibit costing $5,000,000. If the fair were being held in Chicago this year these nations would not have spent such sums. Here the sentiment is so strong against involvement in foreign wars that no nation could possibly get its money's worth from such vast outlays for propaganda."

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

MATTER OF SENTIMENT WASHINGTON, May 18.—The celebrated White House tax conference appears to have been one of those rare farcical interludes which brighten the solemn processes of government. The scene was the office of the President of the United States. Besides the President, the secretary of the Treasury and several of the most influential members of congress were among the great men present. And the conference's central incident was a long, rather peevish squabble about a tax which has no visible economic effects and yields almost no revenue.

The tax in question, of course, is the stump of the undistributed profits levy which was left after the senate went to work on it last year. The squabble, moreover, has a more than comic significance, for it is now quite clear that the obstacle to the great tax revision movement has been the President's personal unwillingness to remove this stump from the tax schedules. He was the sponsor of the undistributed profits levy. The fact that it is no longer a revenue producer and has lost its economic effects means nothing to him. Useless or not, he has a sentimental (or prideful) affection for it.

As a result, at the White House tax conference, the President is understood to have berated the secretary of the Treasury, Henry Morgenthau Jr., for failing to produce statistics proving the value of the cherished levy. He also did his best to prevent congressional consideration of the tax revision which business desires—tax revision, it may be said, which will not diminish government income. And finally, he had to be told frankly by Chairman Pat Harrison, of the senate finance committee, that tax revision was in the cards anyway.

UNHAPPY HISTORY The incident had its ironies. While telling the President where to get off, Pat Harrison must have remembered an earlier interview in the same office, at which the President, whose lieutenants were even then buttonholing senators at the capitol, blandly declared his neutrality in the senate leadership fight. Harrison has never quite forgiven the President for his defeat in that fight by Alben Barkley. And the President, for his part, is squirming under the President's rebuke, must have thought unhappy thoughts about the whole presidential system of dealing with taxes.

There was the famous share-the-wealth tax of 1935. That one was substituted for a simple, conservative Treasury tax bill the night before the bill was to be sent to the hill. The President must have had the happy idea of taking the wind out of Huey Long's sails at his afternoon tea, for the substitute measure was written by a Treasury official summoned to the White House after dinner. Morgenthau knew nothing of what was up until the next morning, when he was confronted with the results of his subordinate's night-long labors.

That was the bill which the President ordered Pat Harrison and the then majority leader, Joe Robinson, to tack on to a trivial house tax measure as an amendment—and then, after they had disclosed their orders, cheerfully repudiated them. Nor was that bill much more than a simple undistributed profits levy itself, which was the result of the late Herman Oliphant's anti-monopolistic enthusiasm. While it was being cooked up at the White House by Oliphant, Morgenthau was vacationing at Sea Island. When he returned, he found the bill drawn, and again he had to like it or lump it.

THE SENSELESS SITUATION Furthermore, these highly controversial, rather haphazard New Deal ventures in taxation have prevented action on a broad, intelligent tax program, just as the stump of the undistributed profits levy is now holding up moderate tax revision. Such a broad tax program was drawn up by a qualified expert, former Undersecretary of the Treasury Roswell Magill. It was embodied in a memorandum which was presented to the President. The Treasury still possesses the memorandum, and would like to act on it. But the President is opposed, as his reaction to the present tax revision proposals, which were barrowed from the memorandum very amply demonstrates.

The situation makes even less sense than usual, for Secretary of Commerce Harry L. Hopkins, several administration economists and other notable members of the New Deal left are all reported to approve the tax revision which Morgenthau and Harrison desire. But, senseless as it is, the situation is not likely to improve.

But bid his time away
'Til summer came,

Justice

And the Negro.

A new viewpoint on a condition which has for long been a subject for worried contemplation was presented to this column the other day. The subject is the type of justice that is meted to the average negro defendant in the courts.

There can be no denying that, in many instances, a negro offender gets a heavier penalty than a white man guilty of the same offense. For instance, take traffic or driving violations. Presume a white man guilty of reckless, fast driving and of driving while drunk, on the city streets. Convicted he will probably draw a chain gang sentence of six or twelve months, without the option of a fine or with a fine added.

An average white man, guilty in the same degree of the same offense, will probably be fined and have his driving license taken away for a few months. And that is all. Understand, there are exceptions that prove every rule. I'm speaking of the average case. However, recently one of Atlanta's better class negroes came and asked if something couldn't be done to assure heavier sentences for negro killers. Of course, he was talking of cases in which one negro murdered another. It was for the protection of his race he asked. And he charged conditions that are as startling, on the side of too much leniency to negroes in such cases, as anything that can be added on the reverse side of the picture.

Cheap

Murder.

If a negro kills another negro, he said, the chances are he'll get off with a sentence not exceeding five years in prison. Again, there are exceptions but this, he asserted, is the probability.

"The prosecutors," he said, "are not much interested in murder cases among negroes. So any smart lawyer can generally get the defendant acquitted or, at worst, a minor sentence on one of the lesser homicide charges."

"The result is that you can quite easily hire a negro, today, to kill another negro for $25 and lawyer fees. Which will come to about $100. Making the market price of negro homicide about $125 or $150. If the courts would take negro homicide cases more seriously and impose heavier penalties—death sentences and life terms—there'd be a lot fewer such killings. As it is, there are two or three a week, many weeks, in the city."

He may be right. I haven't paid much attention to the criminal courts and the outcome of trials conducted therein. My impression that the negro killers, like most other negro offenders, were likely to feel the hand of the law at its heaviest. But maybe I'm wrong.

One Reason

For Condition.

However, if this negro—a thoroughly intelligent, high-class and fine representative of his race—is right, one reason for the situation is the attitude of the average negroes themselves. For it cannot be denied many of them don't attach much importance to the murder of an inconspicuous negro themselves. And it is but natural that this valuation of negro life should be rather loosely accepted by everyone.

An illustrative example:

A negro employed in a local restaurant was stabbed to death, late one night, in the kitchen of that restaurant by another negro worker. The police were called and arrested the guilty man. He made no attempt to escape or deny his guilt. The police couldn't leave the scene until the undertaker came and removed the body of the victim. While waiting they put their prisoner in the police car, properly handcuffed and guarded.

But the prisoner grew tired of waiting and complained about the slowness of arrival of the undertaker.

"Boss," he appealed to the officer who had arrested him, "why does we have to wait until they take that dead nigger away from hyah?"

"You're not anxious to be locked up, are you, boy?" asked the officer, in reply.

"Sure is, boss. I see hungry and thirsty niggers. Wants to get supper and some rest."

That was all. Neither voice nor attitude expressed any regret for the dead man or concern over his own situation. Utterly casual, with his mind solely occupied with the desire for food and sleep.

It is an attitude toward ruthless destruction of human life that is altogether too casual, whether by negro or white. Until it is changed, the annual homicide statistics will continue, as they have for years, to be topped by southern cities in that column which records the number of murders per 100,000 of population.

Twenty-Five

Years Ago Today.

From the news columns of Tuesday, May 19, 1914:

"The continuation today of the great evangelical campaign which began in all the Baptist churches of Atlanta Sunday will carry the services into the shops, factories and remotest corners of the city."

And Fifty

Years Ago.

From the news columns of Sunday, May 19, 1889:

"The military of Atlanta are on the qui vive. Yesterday was the last day before the great contest comes off at Macon, that is to say, it was the last opportunity the two Atlanta companies would have for good hard drill. And right diligently did the boys apply themselves."

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

The Job of NEW YORK, May 18.—It will be remembered when the British King and Queen came to this country that they are not coming to visit the American newspapers or the reporters or trained seals assigned to the story and that the press has no social rights or prerogatives in the matter.

It is the job of the press to cover the story just as it is the job of the railroad men to run the train on which those tourists ride, and there is no obligation on the King or Queen to take any journalists on their laps or invite them to pull up chairs and shoot olive branches at them. They don't owe any consideration to the social ambitions or pretensions of any publishers or any wives thereof or of any staff or syndicate journalist. However, sensitive or self-important, therefore, any reprisal on the part of the press for failure to propitiate the press will smack of blackmail and hurt the papers more than them.

It shouldn't be necessary for anyone to fawn on the press or its individual representatives in order to escape deliberately nasty publicity and the fact that it is notoriously the case in the journalism of Hollywood and the so-called Broadway sector is a reproach which ought to be localized or abolished and certainly not extended. Indiscretely, though not quite there, there has developed a small group of personally vain and hypersensitive poseurs in the newspaper business who regard themselves as persons of great celebrity and, in arrogant ignorance of the first principles of journalism, require flattering attention as the price of praise or forbearance and avenge with scurrilous innuendoes any manifestation of the contempt which they deserve.

Revolting The journalistic orgies of the Hauptmann trial were a revolting demonstration of this new method of personal exploitation at the expense of the story and of justice itself, and the same bug has infected—although much less flagrant—the fourth estate of Washington under the New Deal.

Newspaper people ought to keep their distance socially from the objects of their professional coverage and neither seek nor permit themselves to be drawn into a social intimacy which is a sure recipe for disaster. If a reporter's reporting could be construed as retaliation for personal slight or payment for social favor. Mrs. Roosevelt's neighborly warmth was a sharp relief from the bleak austerity of her immediate predecessor in that which she appears to regard as a public duty, but, as a result, in some cases individuals have been made to seem rude if not hostile to the administration who only insisted on keeping their distance and their perspective and choosing their own social life.

Nobody knows beyond a guess why the King and Queen are coming here at this time, he with much work undone at the office and she with a sinkful of dishes, so to speak, but outwardly, at least, they visit in purely social fashion. The British embassy's failure to invite the whole Washington corps of journalists to the garden party for their nibs is no calamity to the press and shouldn't be one to them.

Reporters

Not Society

Reporters, thank God, are not society, and those who think they are are neither reporters nor society but inept amateurs who don't speak the language, on the professional side, and climb a ruble or broken-down aristocrats, on the social side.

And the party in the garden will not be news unless some appointee's wife tries to pick a brawl with the Queen over the debt or Bunker's and some buck New Dealer with a snootful of the boss's best thinks the occasion appropriate to sing the one beginning "The minstrel's song of a jovial King; a wonderful King was he." Either one would be a faux pas, causing consternation, but no respectability as guest under the social obligations binding on a guest could write the piece without sacrificing of personal honor, so it were best for the press to scout around outside and obtain the news from some invitee when the blunders begin to heave them over the garden wall.

This exclusion is to the advantage of the press in another way, too, for this will be one time when no man can say he was a reporter—what else did you expect?—who staggered out with a quart in his pocket or pushed Lady Agatha into the fountain.

Trout to Get Suckers.

A trout with a price on his head represents one Huertano county, Colo., rancher's bid for tourist business.

He marked an eight pound rainbow trout and turned him loose in the Huertano river.

If a fisherman lands the trout this summer he said he would pay him $50.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL.

THE FARMER BEGINS TO FIGHT Ever since Alexander Hamilton set the pattern of our government the odds have run against the farmer. He always has been caught between the millstones of economics. The farmer can tell you they grind exceeding fine.

The truth is, industry and labor give little heed to the farmer. Both instituted tariffs to protect competition and wages. With but a few exceptions they ignored the farmer.

It did not matter so much at the time of Jefferson when we were but a loosely knit group of agrarian units. It began to matter more and more as distances were shortened by new ships. It began to matter very much when nationalism began to sweep the world. The Georgia farmer at last is beginning to fight. The middle-western bloc has done well across a long span of time. Cotton has been a power not so much because the cotton farmer had any influence but because the cotton industry did.

Today the picture is changing.

THERE GROWS IN GEORGIA In Georgia there is growing Georgia Farmers. It is the most significant growth in the state. It has grown, and is growing, without any fanfare, without any great "drives." In some counties the quota of 1,000 members has been reached.

Most significant is the fact that in the list of members one finds tenants, sharecroppers and owners. It is not an organization of farm owners but an organization of men who farm; men who have been grossly treated by the millstones; men with a grievance and, more important, a plan.

This organization can and ought to become the most powerful political influence in Georgia if it remains out of politics but vitally interested in politics.

If it, as other organizations, before it have done, becomes involved in the machinations of political campaigns; if it becomes seduced by some political leader and goes whooping off into this partisan camp and that; if it attempts to set up candidates of its own, then it will be doomed to failure.

They do not intend for it to become such an organization. They intend it shall have a closely-knit, state-wide membership. Its membership will be interested, not in politics, but in farming. But we betide the candidate who promises—and fails.

Imagine what 1,000 voters could do in the average Georgia county.

The organization is not yet completed. It is in the process of growing. Meanwhile, if anyone should ask about the more important straws in Georgia's political and economic winds, tell them of the United Georgia Farmers.

A FEW "REASONS WHY"

R. M. Stiles, of Cartersville, Bartow county, is the president. He has served, for many years, in an official capacity with the Eufrasio Farmers' Club of Bartow county. It is the oldest farm organization in America. He is a real man, and a real farmer. In a pamphlet to the farmers of Georgia he lists 15 reasons why farmers should join the association. I present the first five to give the tenor of their reasoning and appeal:

1. Because our farm problems naturally divide themselves into three classes as follows: (1) Those problems that the farm family can solve for itself; (2) Those problems requiring group action by farm families of community and county and (3) Those problems which require group action by the farm families of both state and nation.

2. Because, for several years the average per capita income of the Georgia farm family has been only $147.00 as compared with $343.00 per capita income for all families in Georgia.

3. Because, since the average per capita income of the Georgia farm family is less than one-half of the per capita income of the average Georgia non-farm family, and since the non-farm families of Georgia have through the years been organized and thus have been successful in raising their income, it naturally stands to reason that the Georgia farm family might also raise its income through organization. Parity of Income and Parity of Purchasing Power is the first great objective of the United Georgia Farmers.

4. Because the United Georgia Farmers is an educational, legislative and promotional organization and cooperates with all federal agricultural agencies to bring the greatest measure of prosperity to each farm family in Georgia.

5. Because the United Georgia Farmers is a non-commercial organization and does not buy or sell, exchange or barter in any kind of farm commodities whatsoever, but it does co-operate with and promotes all farmer-owned and farmer-controlled co-operatives which are properly set up to render service to the farmer.

There are ten other such reasons. Once they get 100,000 or perhaps 150,000 members one may expect a great change in Georgia politics. And also in the economy of the state. You won't hear from them as a vital factor this year. Perhaps not in 1940, although they may. But by 1942 the politician will be wise who does not promise what he cannot deliver.

The Sad Story of a Generous Letter That Backfired

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

The morning mail brought Bill Jones a letter which reminded him of his own good fortune.

At Bill was an expert gadget man, in excellent health, and district manager of a great organization.

The letter was from another gadget man named Sam. It said he was jobless and broke and desperate and sorely in need of a loan.

Bill didn't answer the letter till after lunch. Then, at peace with the world, drawing on a good cigar and sitting at ease with his feet on the desk, he said to his secretary:

"Miss Brown, we must write a letter to make old Sam feel good—something to cheer him up and stiffen his backbone. Are you ready?"

"Dear Sam: Here is the check. Sorry I can't make it larger, but I keep my money invested and have little cash at this time of the month."

"It's foolish of you to feel blue, Sam. You are a better gadget man than I am, and you will keep on improving, for you are only too valuable to be idle."

"In strict confidence, I would gladly change places with you. I have a cranky heart, and my doctor tells me I may check out at any moment."

"So be glad you're alive and young and healthy and wait for a break."

"That ought to make him feel good, Miss Brown. Nothing cheers us up like the bad luck of the fortunate."

A week later Bill got a letter from the home office telling him he would be retired on the first day of the next month. His pension would equal one-tenth of his salary.

Bill caught the first plane and next morning faced the president of the company to demand an explanation. For answer the president handed him the letter he had written to Sam. He recognized it and his face turned a deep red.

"Why, the dirty—" he began.

"Easy, Bill," warned the president. "Remember that heart. We are retiring you so you can rest and prolong your life. Sam will relieve you on the first. Frankly, it was your generous praise that got him the job."

The moral may be that one shouldn't tell lies, even for a good purpose; but the more practical one is that you shouldn't write letters of that kind that come home to roost.

Bill Boosts Appropriation For Atlanta Penitentiary

Measure Reported to House; Increase of $127,680
Asked Here.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS,
Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, May 18.—The Atlanta penitentiary receives a substantial increase of funds for maintenance and operation in the annual appropriation bill for the Department of Justice, which was reported to the house today.

While the total amount recommended in the bill for penal and correctional institutions of the country is $7,887,120, an increase of $1,537,635 over the current fiscal year, no specific sums are earmarked for individual institutions, but James G. Bennett, chief of the bureau of prisons, told the appropriations committee when hearings were held last April that the Atlanta penitentiary would require $1,115,000 for the next fiscal year, an increase of $127,680 over this year.

Chief Bennett broke down the $127,680 increase for Atlanta, as follows: $41,280 for personal services; $1,500 for maintenance and operation (for one extra day in leap year) and $54,900 for special repairs and replacements.

20 Added to Personnel.
The increased need for the following employees: One junior associate warden at $4,600 a year; one farm manager, $2,900; 1 lieutenant, $2,300; one assistant parole officer, $2,000; one junior warden's assistant, $2,000; one clerk (classification secretary), $2,000; one junior steward, $2,300; two senior cooks at $2,000 each, and eleven junior officers at $1,860 each, making a total of new personnel, 20.

Explaining the need for a new farm manager, Chief Bennett pointed out that the Atlanta penitentiary had two farms.

"Farm No. 1," he said, "which consists largely of vegetable raising, is adjacent to the institution; but Farm No. 2 is located some seven or eight miles from the main institution. During the past few years we have been attempting to operate these farms with three assistant farm managers, one of whom was in charge of the activities of Farm No. 1, one in charge of the field operations at Farm No. 2, and one dairyman at Farm No. 2. No farm manager is provided at present and, consequently, there is little or no co-ordination between the two farms. As a result, there has been considerable confusion and inefficient management of the farm. The farms have been unscientifically terraced with the result that the fields are entirely too small for economical operation, and the soil has been permitted to run down. The necessity for a farm manager to co-ordinate these activities is, therefore, of the paramount importance if the best results are to be obtained."

Rampage Urges Funds.
Representative Robert Rampage, in whose congressional district the penitentiary is located, testified before the subcommittee that additional funds should be allowed for an increase of guards.

"In addition to the 60-hour week," he said, "the guards on the day shift are required each week to take approximately five hours in physical training and target practice, so far all practical purpose these men are being required to work 65 hours a week in this government institution, while we are saying to private employers that they shall not at the present time work their employees more than 44 hours a week, under penalty of a $10,000 fine or six months in jail."

He urged that the prison guardsmen be put on a 44-hour week. In asking for another lieutenant, Mr. Bennett explained that the present organization of the institution had only five.

"In view of the large population at the Atlanta penitentiary," he declared, "six lieutenants should be provided. This would bring the complement of this particular position into line with the Leavenworth (Kan.) institution."

JURY WILL CLOSE PALMER HEARING
SARASOTA, Fla., May 18.—(AP)—A coroner's jury tomorrow will formally close its investigation of the death of wealthy Potter D'Orrsay Palmer, and Justice of the Peace Franklin Redd Jr. said it would have "no alternative" but to report death from natural causes.

Redd summoned the jury to meet at 10 a. m. to make its final report.

Palmer, 35-year-old heir to a Chicago fortune, died in a hospital Monday, four days after he was reported struck in a fight at a stag picnic near Bradenton.

Autopsy reports by Dr. David R. Kennedy and Dr. Herbert R. Mills, Redd declared, found that violence was not the cause of Palmer's death and that he succumbed from natural causes.

ANTI-TRUST OFFICES MAY BE OPENED HERE
WASHINGTON, May 18.—(AP)—If congress provides the money, the anti-trust division of the Justice Department plans to create regional offices in New York, Atlanta, Chicago, Oklahoma City and San Francisco.

Thurman Arnold, assistant attorney general in charge of the division, told a house appropriations subcommittee in testimony made public today that full prosecution of violations of the anti-trust laws would require the new offices. The house appropriations committee backed him up by recommending funds for the purpose.

CHINESE RETAKE CITY OF TUNGPEH

Report 4,000 Japanese Are Killed in 48 Hours of Bloody Fighting.

SHANGHAI, Friday, May 19.—(UP)—Chinese reports today said Chinese reoccupied the city of Tungpeh, on the Honan-Hupeh border after 48 hours of bloody fighting on the outskirts and in the streets in which 4,000 Japanese troops were killed.

The reports said the Chinese were following up the victory by pursuing fleeing Japanese and re-occupying a number of near-by villages.

which is of similar size and has similar population and which at the present time has six lieutenants."

Urging appointment of 11 junior officers, he pointed out that the custodial staff at Atlanta was inadequate to liquidate this accumulated and accumulating leave. "The warden reports," Chief Bennett said, "a total of 4,474 days of accumulated annual leave at the end of February, 1939. It would require 16 officers working an entire year to liquidate this accumulated leave, to say nothing of the leave that is accumulating currently. Four additional officers, therefore, should be provided for leave purposes. In addition, four officers will be required in the new receiving building now under construction and three more officers are urgently needed for the dormitory at farm No. 2."

11 More Officers Needed.
The warden recommended 30 additional officers, but we have reduced this to 11 as representing the minimum requirements. This would bring the total complement of custodial officers up to 175, which is the same number as recommended for Leavenworth's main institution."

Asked for a table showing a breakdown of specific repairs and replacements, amounting to $54,900, which he requested, Chief Bennett told Chairman McMillan: "A recent survey indicates that the low per capita costs which have prevailed at the Atlanta penitentiary during the past several years have been maintained at the expense of maintenance needs, because of the efforts of the institution's officials to keep costs to a minimum. As a result, we are finding it necessary to do considerable maintenance work that has been long delayed, as well as to replace a great deal of worn-out and obsolete equipment, and we have included $54,900 for that purpose."

The warden, Bennett explained, recommended the following as the most urgent: Boiler settings, $30,000; boiler house repairs and replacements, $3,550; sprinkler system additions, farms No. 1 and No. 2, $1,700; remodeling of paint shop, $1,572; new radiators, C and D cellhouses, $1,380; new telephone additions, $800; hot-water heater and storage tank, hospital, $1,510; cold-water lines, $1,250; painting of cellhouses and institution, $7,500; gate, sally port, $150; repairs to buildings, $5,500.

JAPANESE QUIET AS MARINES GUARD AMOY FOREIGNERS

American-British-French Forces Outnumber Nipponese, 3 to 1; To Stay as Long as Invaders.

AMOY, China, May 18.—(P)—Outnumbered exactly three to one by combined United States-British-French forces, a Japanese landing party in Kulangsu, Amoy's international settlement, further restricted its activities tonight.

The 42 Japanese bluejackets were concentrated at the Japanese hospital in Kulangsu. They had ceased attempting to patrol streets of the island in Amoy harbor and their search for the slayers of Hung Lih-son, whose assassination was given as the reason for the landing in Kulangsu, was pursued quietly.

French Marines Land.
Forty-two French marines were landed today from the cruiser Emile Bertin to join parties of the same number of American and British sailors from the cruisers Marblehead and Birmingham put ashore on Kulangsu yesterday.

United States, British and French naval officers said their parties would remain indefinitely for the protection of their nationals' interests.

(At the London foreign office it was stated the British force would remain on Kulangsu exactly as long and in the same numbers as the Japanese force, which occupied the settlement last Friday. It was understood the American and French attitude was the same.)

To Press Demands.
Outwardly Kulangsu and Amoy were quiet. However, Japanese naval officers declared that their demands for virtual Japanese control of the settlement, which its council has rejected, would be pressed further.

(The Japanese embassy in London yesterday disclosed that the demands included replacement of the chairman, police superintendent and other settlement officers, now mostly British, by Japanese and permitting Formosan-Japanese subjects to vote for the council and hold places on it. The council now has one American member.)

(In Shanghai the International Settlement police began a drastic roundup through downtown Shanghai in an effort to eliminate Chinese terrorists who have been attacking Chinese who side with the Japanese.

(The United States marine regiment at Shanghai was held in its barracks ready for emergency duty should disorders arise.)

(The United States consulate at Foochow, Fukien province port north of Amoy, reported that Japanese warships had been shelling towns and villages along the Min river below Foochow.)

(The Japanese air forces carried out extensive bombing raids in many provinces from the Yellow river in the north southward to Kwangtung province.)

'School' Routine Is Installed In City Comptroller's Office

B. Graham West Allows Two 10-Minute Recesses and a 45-Minute Lunch Period for Employees to Gain Greater Efficiency.

Recess bell rings at 10 a. m. and at 3 p. m. in the office of B. Graham West, Atlanta's veteran city comptroller.

That means 10 minutes to grab a drink, talk or what have you, but when the time is up West expects every one of 14 employees of his office back at their desks "ready to resume their jobs and wait on the public."

Lunch hour is 45 minutes—not 44 or 46—according to a new order passed to employees so "when they are needed they'll be available."

Several days ago, West addressed a letter setting out the office rules in writing and bearing the name of every employee. Each employee, when he read it and understood it, thoroughly, checked his name on the list and it went to the others. In this way there was no way for any employee to fail to see that a violation of the rules would subject him to "lose from his vacation" the time taken off in excess of allotted hours or maybe minutes.

Employees took the letter good naturally, smilingly admitting: "School's in, according to this. It means business."

Commenting on the new office order yesterday, West said: "The employees will know definitely what is expected of them and I'll know when I can find them. In the past we have lacked routine, and sometimes I have wanted someone only to be informed he or she is in the soda fountain or somewhere else. I think we all will like the new arrangement better service to the public."

extending to you our sympathy in his passing and in expressing to you the appreciation of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce and Atlanta for the fine, constructive work which he performed in his capacity as secretary of the Chamber of Commerce. Particular consideration is given to his activities in the formation of the Southeastern Fair Association, which has had from the beginning as one of its main objectives the promotion and development of livestock and agriculture.

This letter is written as a result of the unanimous action of the members of this committee in meeting today.

Sincerely yours,
W. R. ULRICH,
Executive Secretary.

STATE DELEGATION TO ATTEND FORUM

Georgia Legislators in Congress Will Hear Roosevelt Address Retailers.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. WASHINGTON, May 18.—The Georgia delegation in congress is taking an interest in the Retailers' National Forum here May 22, 23, it was indicated by advance reservations announced today at the American Retail Federation headquarters.

Representatives Paul Brown, of Elberton; Hugh Peterson, of Albany; Robert Nease, of Decatur, and M. C. Tarver, of Dalton, have accepted invitations and will be among more than 200 congressmen to attend the banquet Monday night, May 22, when President Roosevelt will address the retailers. His speech, expected here to be a significant economic pronouncement of the administration viewpoint, will reach a nationwide audience over the four national broadcasting networks.

Others on the speakers' list for the two-day meeting are Secretary of Commerce Harry L. Hopkins, Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, Federal Trade Commission Chairman Robert E. Freer, Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney, of Wyoming, and Minority Floor Leader Joseph W. Martin Jr., of Massachusetts.

HUSBAND CHARGES WIFE WITH CRUELTY
J. Elsas Phillips yesterday charged Mrs. Patricia Russell Phillips, his wife, with mental cruelty, habitual drunkenness and physical cruelty in a divorce suit filed in Fulton county superior court.

The petition, drawn by T. J. Long, attorney, set out that the couple was married March 26, 1936, and after having been separated several times previously, made their separation permanent April 29, 1939. Mrs. Phillips filed suit for divorce previously in DeKalb county, but she and her husband were later reconciled.

INSURANCE ESSAY PRIZES PRESENTED

Miss Marty Connor, Decatur Girls' High, Receives Top Award of $25.

Miss Marty Connor, of Decatur Girls' High school, was presented with the first prize of $25 yesterday for the best essay in a contest conducted by the Atlanta Life Underwriters Association.

Miss Lillian Phillips, of Campbell High school, Fairburn, won the $15 second prize, and Billy Gifford, of Richardson High school, College Park, took the third prize of $10.

The prizes were awarded at a luncheon meeting of the association at which Dr. Willis A. Sutton, city school superintendent, was principal speaker. The essays were on life insurance.

Other students selected for having the best essay from their respective schools were David F. Dixon, of Georgia Military Academy; Roy Courter, of Marietta College; Virginia Murray, of Stone Mountain High school; Ivy Sims, of Hapeville High school; Marian Horne, of Girls' High school; Nathan Sewell, of Russell High school; Laurene Tate, of Chamblee High school; Mildred Scott, of Commercial High school; H. G. Pattillo, of Candler Junior High school; Robert F. Strickland, of Tech High school, and Harold Hill, of Roswell High school. All were honor guests at the meeting.

SANFORD ASKS PWA TO RESTORE FUNDS

$387,000 for University Building Program Sought.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. WASHINGTON, May 18.—Dr. S. V. Sanford, chancellor of the University System of Georgia, today conferred with officials of the Public Works Administration in an effort to have restored an allotment of $387,000 for building activities in connection with the university system expansion program, which was recently rescinded.

Secretary Ickes, the national public works administrator, rescinded the allotment because of the inability of the university system to raise approximately $448,000 for matching the government funds.

Dr. Sanford also conferred with PWA heads regarding certain amendments to applications of projects in the university system now under construction. Today's conferences were preliminary and will be resumed again tomorrow. Dr. Sanford was encouraged over the prospects but said he would have no definite statement to make until a further meeting with officials.

Riley Takes to Heels in Escape Try, But Deputies Win Heated Foot Race

Alleged Burglary Ring Member Makes Second Bid for Freedom at Courthouse, But Puzzling Basement Rooms Lead to His Recapture.

In a heated foot race, Fulton county deputy sheriffs yesterday thwarted the second attempt of Ray Riley, alleged member of a burglary ring, to escape trial.

When Riley was slated to face trial in Fulton county on the same charges several weeks ago, he was caught in an effort to remove the steel screening in the prisoners' detention room.

Yesterday, it was the sheriff's deputies whose prowess was tried, but earlier in the week, Fulton county police emerged victors in a race with Jack White, charged with automobile theft.

Riley, who is now serving a four-year sentence in DeKalb county for larceny of an automobile, is booked there as Raymond Dean, according to prison camp attaches.

He was slated for trial yesterday in Judge John D. Humphries' division of Fulton county superior court, but the case was postponed until next Tuesday.

Deputy Sheriffs Albert Lyon and Ed Burdette were escorting him back to the detention room when the elevator stopped at the basement floor at the courthouse.

As the door opened, Riley decided his opportunity had arrived, and he dashed for it. Following close behind him were Burdette and Lyons, but Riley looked like a winner, when he was tricked.

The maze of corridors and basement rooms were a puzzle to him. Seeing a corps of workers gathering to intercept his progress, he veered into the photostat room, from which there is but one door.

Officers closed in, and it was Burdette and Lyon who again took him into custody. They handcuffed him, while he issued a blanket invitation for them to "fight me individually: I'll take you on any time."

He was escorted under a heavy civilian guard, which had gathered by that time, to the detention room, and was placed in "solitary."

Aroused by the several attempted escapes, Sheriff J. C. (Mott) Aldredge last night ordered his deputies to "take no chances" with other prisoners and to handcuff them on the journeys to courtrooms.

"I am also going to appeal to the Fulton county commission to see that the prisoners' elevator in the courthouse is in operation whenever there is a criminal court in operation," he said.

"Prisoners should not be carried in the same elevators with citizens, because one might try again to make a get-away and a citizen might be injured," he added.

The sheriff declared that his deputies will be instructed not to show "kindnesses" to prisoners who might take advantage of not being handcuffed.

GAINESVILLE, Ga., May 18.—Former Governor John M. Slaton addressed the Gainesville Kiwanis Club yesterday, discussing "Georgia's Tax Dilemma."

R. W. HASTINGS SR. DIES, RITES TODAY

Member of Pioneer Atlanta Family Succumbs in Rome.

Richard W. Hastings Sr., member of a pioneer Atlanta family and plant superintendent of the Chatillon-Tubize Company at Rome, Ga., died unexpectedly in his office there yesterday morning.

A native of this city, he was the son of Thomas and Ellen Maher Hastings, both of whom were among the best known of the early residents here. He was connected with the Atlantic Steel Company before moving to Rome about 10 years ago.

Surviving are his wife, a daughter, Miss Claire Hastings; two sons, Thomas and Richard W. Hastings Jr.; a sister, Miss Mamie Hastings, credit manager of Rich's, and a sister-in-law, Mrs. Robert E. Hastings.

Services will be conducted at 10:30 o'clock this morning at the Church of the Immaculate Conception by the Rev. Father Joseph Smith. Burial will be in Oak-land cemetery under direction of Sam R. Greenberg & Company.

WATERWAY URGED.
BIRMINGHAM, Ala., May 18.—(P)—Representative Joe Starnes, Democrat, Alabama, urged construction of the proposed Gulf-Tennessee river waterway on the Guntersville-Warrior river route today as a national defense measure, and as a way of insuring further industrial development of the south.

COOPER SERVICES TO BE HELD TODAY

Writer and Civic Leader Will Be Buried in West View Cemetery.

Final rites for Walter G. Cooper Sr., widely known as a writer and civic leader who died Wednesday night, will be conducted at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Druid Hills Baptist church.

The Rev. Samuel A. Cardledge will officiate and burial will be in West View cemetery under direction of H. M. Patterson & Son.

A native of Floyd county, Mr. Cooper spent most of his life here and was long active in the newspaper business. He served as secretary of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce from 1922 to 1917 and was author of a history of Georgia and the official history of Fulton county.

Letters Sent Wife.

Letters of sympathy were sent to Mrs. Cooper yesterday by Alvin B. Cates, president, and W. R. Ulrich, the present executive secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

The letters follow:
Dear Mrs. Cooper:

In behalf of the Chamber of Commerce, its board of directors and membership and the staff, may I extend to you and through you to the members of the family our deep sympathy in the passing of Mr. Walter G. Cooper, who, during his lifetime, was one of Atlanta's ablest and most unselfish civic leaders.

We in the Chamber of Commerce have felt that we have had particularly close ties with him because of his many years of service as secretary of the organization. During his time much of Atlanta's progress and development was in a large measure the result of his untiring efforts.

We know that you can carry with you in the days to come a feeling that he did well his part as a citizen and as a leader in the community.

Sincerely yours,
ALVIN B. CATES, President.

Ulrich Writes.
Dear Mrs. Cooper:

The livestock committee of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, in a meeting today, took cognizance of the passing of Mr. Walter G. Cooper, an able and respected citizen of Atlanta for a long period of years.

We join with many others in

7 PICKETS ARE HELD IN COAL DISORDERS

Guard Commander Not to Permit Picketing in Totz, Ky.

HARLAN, Ky., May 18.—(UP) Brigadier General Ellerbe Carter, commanding 1,200 national guardsmen in Harlan county's strife-torn coal fields, tonight ordered the arrest of seven pickets who he charged were responsible for disorders which resulted in the closing of a mine at Totz, Kentucky.

Carter also announced that picketing would not be allowed in the future at Totz, where union pickets and guardsmen were reported to have exchanged gunfire. George M. Titler, district secretary-treasurer of the United Mine Workers, denied that union members had fired on troops at Totz, and charged that reports of the fight were put out by guard leaders to arouse sentiment for additional soldiers.

ALABAMA MINERS SIGN CONTRACT

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., May 18.—(P)—The seven-week shutdown of Alabama coal mines was ended today by a new two-year contract between operators estimated to represent 90 per cent of the state's commercial mines and the United Mine Workers of America (U. M. W.). The agreement provides a "union shop" under which all new employees must be members of the U. M. W. and that union is given sole bargaining rights for all employees.

In return operators were given a "penalty" clause under which fines will be assessed for "wildcat" strikes.

CONTRACTS RENEWED IN PENNSYLVANIA

PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 18.—(P)—The United Mine Workers today began renewing contracts without a "union shop" clause with the steel company-owned "captive" mine concerns, a move expected to return to the soft coal pits an additional 30,000 miners next week.

Harry Moses, president of the U. S. Steel mining subsidiaries, signed the first renewal agreement for two years, covering its mines in western Pennsylvania where union contracts expired April 1.

POPE PIUS TAKES CHARGE OF CHURCH

Prayers for Peace Mark Possession Rites.

ROME, May 18.—(P)—The unceasing appeal of Pope Pius XII for peace echoed today when the pontiff, as Bishop of Rome, formally took possession of his diocese church, St. John Lateran.

As the holy father was borne to the balcony to give his benediction "to city and to world," the choir intoned a hymn to the blessed Virgin in accordance with his pleas for prayers to her this month to spare the world from war.

Today's possession ceremonies were the first with medieval pomp and splendor since 1846 when Pius IX went to the basilica, "Mother and Head of All Churches," at the beginning of his pontificate.

Eugenia Snow Will Give Concert On Monday Evening in Savannah

By Sally Forth.

THE thrill of a lifetime awaits Eugenia Snow next Monday evening when she makes her out-of-town debut on the concert stage. Eugenia, you know, is one of the south's most gifted pianists and her appearance on the program of the Savannah Music Club will be one of the high lights of her youthful life. No doubt, but that the occasion will mark the beginning of a brilliant career for the talented Atlantian.

Eugenia's forthcoming appearance in Georgia's coastal city reads like a fairy story with a fairy godfather, instead of godmother, waving the magic wand. Recently when Eugenia was playing informally for a group of friends, she was totally unaware that her every touch on the piano keys was being carefully watched by a visitor destined to give her the forthcoming opportunity.

The visitor was Dwight Bruce, president of the Music Club of Savannah. So impressed was Mr. Bruce with Eugenia's artistry that he invited her to Savannah next Monday evening as the club's visiting artist. It will be Eugenia's first concert out of Atlanta and Sally predicts that many more will follow, as she leaves for New York after her Savannah debut for auditions before leading stage and concert directors.

Sally recalls Eugenia's brilliant recital presented at the Atlanta Woman's Club several years ago which also marked her formal bow into social realms. The recital was followed by an elaborate dance at which Eugenia and her cousin, Margaret Walker, made their debut as members of that season's debutante club.

The gifted pianist, by the way, will be accompanied to Savannah by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George D. Snow, and her lifelong friend and teacher, Mrs. Wayne Wilson.

AN ARTISTIC treat is in store for members of the executive board of the Julia Jackson Chapter, Children of the Confederacy, when they attend the luncheon which Annette Spinning will entertain tomorrow at her North avenue residence. The luncheon table at which guests will be seated will be centered with a miniature reproduction of the original gardens at Bonaventure in Savannah. These famous gardens, you know, comprise the ancestral estate of the distinguished Mullryne and Tattall families of Savannah.

Live moss, taken from the century-old oaks in the coastal city, will sway from the branches of the tiny trees, and Colonel John Mullryne, Governor Josiah Tattall and Commodore Josiah Tattall, forerunners of the ingenious hostess, will be represented by miniature china figures.

The program, which will feature the history of Bonaventure and the life story of Commodore Tattall, is timely, because the annual meeting of the Children of the Confederacy convenes in Savannah on June 13 and 14, when Bonaventure will be visited.

Delegates to represent the Julia Jackson Chapter upon this occasion will be Anita Swanson, president; Annette Spinning, vice president and state officer, and Mrs. W. B. Richardson, director.

Tomorrow's program will be repeated in the near future for the benefit of the Junior group of the chapter when it meets at Rhodes Memorial Hall. Realistic paintings of scenes in Bonaventure will be shown upon this occasion.

YOUTHFUL ranks of Atlanta society were increased yesterday with the arrival of baby Frances Holliday at Emory University.

Want to Win a Kimball Piano— or Valuable Cash Prize for Your Child?

Then enter this easy and really interesting contest!

If you have not read about the national Child Culture Contest, which is being conducted by W. W. Kimball Co., manufacturers of fine pianos and pipe organs, come in today and let us explain it to you. This internationally known, eighty-two year old musical organization is marking its Anniversary with a real contribution to the cause of musical training for children. They are offering you an easy chance to win the latest, 1939 models of Kimball Pianos— and scores of valuable Cash Prizes. There are 5 prizes of $50 each; 10 of $25 each; 20 of $10 each; 100 of $5 each.

Best of all—you only have to write a letter—the kind of a letter you have already composed in your mind because of your frequent longing for a good piano.

Come in today. Let us give you the Child Culture Circular that tells all about this unique idea in contests that you will like. We will give you the free Entry Blank, or you can obtain one by writing the Manager, Child Culture Contest, W. W. Kimball Co., Chicago, Ill. Remember, though, the Contest closes at midnight, June 12th, 1939—and your contribution must be in Chicago by that date. So get started! We will help you.

versity hospital. The little girl is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Caldwell Holliday and the sister of three-year-old Beverly Holliday.

The future belle is the granddaughter on her maternal side of Mrs. Walton Clarke and the late Mr. Clarke; and on her paternal side she is the grandchild of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Holliday.

When baby Frances takes up her abode at the home of her parents on Valley road she will occupy an attractive nursery decorated in the delicate shades of pink, blue and white. The bassinet, which is the handiwork of the baby's mother, the former Frances Clarke, is trimmed in pink net, embroidered with dainty French flowers and covered by a graceful canopy of matching net.

NOVEL and attractive announcements have been issued by Mr. and Mrs. Roswell Earle Smith, of Louisville, Ky., informing their friends of the birth of their son, who first saw the light of day on May 5. The baby's mother, you remember, is the former Mary Power, of Atlanta, and Mr. Smith is well known here, having attended Emory University.

On the front of the announcement folder is a sketch of the inside of a plane with a girl, Mary, at the controls, and a man, Roswell Earle, as her co-pilot. A jagged hole in the windshield shows that the baby in Roswell Earle's arms has just crashed into the ship, and beneath is the exclamation, "Gee, Mary—you hit a stork!"

Inside the folder is the following flight log:

"May 5, 1939—While flying very low over Louisville, Ky., at 4:30 p. m., a storm was encountered and we collided with a stork, which dropped a cherub into Mary Smith's lap. Upon landing at Norton Infirmary, we discovered him to weigh 7 pounds, to have blond hair and blue eyes."

"We have decided to name him Roswell Earle Smith Jr., and henceforth he will accompany us on all our flights."

The log is signed by Mary Power Smith, pilot, and Roswell Earle Smith, co-pilot.

Methodists To Meet At Clifton Church

The Georgia branch of Women's Missionary Work of the Methodist Protestant church will hold its annual meeting at Clifton church tomorrow beginning at 10:30 and closing at 3:30 o'clock, C. S. T.

An interesting program has been planned, the guest speakers to be Mrs. L. M. Awtrey, president of the Women's Missionary work of the North Georgia Conference of the M. E. Church, South; Mrs. L. L. Cox, president of the Women's Missionary Work of the Methodist Episcopal church, and Elmer C. Dewey, Atlanta district elder of the Methodist Episcopal church.

Rev. C. E. Branley, of Bowdon, will report on the uniting conference recently held at Kansas City. A number of representatives from the women's auxiliaries in different sections of the state will take part in the program.

Mrs. Frederick Rice Named Regent Of Joseph Habersham D. A. R.

Mrs. Frederick C. Rice was elected regent of the Joseph Habersham Chapter, D. A. R., at the meeting held yesterday at the chapter house. Other officers elected were Mrs. William P. Dunn, first vice regent; Mrs. J. A. Bell, second vice regent; Mrs. Clyde W. Roberts, chaplain; Mrs. T. J. Watkins, recording secretary; Mrs. John H. Mullin, corresponding secretary; Miss Dixie Stevens, treasurer; Mrs. D. I. MacIntyre, auditor; Mrs. C. D. Tebo, registrar; Mrs. R. P. Sweeney, historian; Miss Helen Prescott, genealogist; Mrs. Julian Jones, consulting genealogist; Mrs. Claude C. Smith, parliamentarian.

The report of the nominating committee was made by the chairman, Mrs. W. A. Freeman. After the election the officers were installed with Mrs. W. A. Selman, retiring chaplain, giving the oath of office. Mrs. W. F. Dykes, past state first vice regent, assisted in the installation ceremony. Mrs. Rice succeeds Miss Juanita Chisholm as regent of the Joseph Habersham chapter. Miss Chisholm has held the regency for the past two years with Mrs. Rice as first vice regent. During Miss Chisholm's administration the chapter has broadened its patriotic program and continued its wide scope of activities.

Among the retiring regent's achievements was the formation of the Junior Group in the chapter. Two large Georgia Products dinners were sponsored under Miss Chisholm's leadership. During the past two years the chapter has added 51 new members to its roll with papers for six pending.

Prior to the meeting Mrs. W. F. Dykes planted a mimosa tree in the garden of the chapter house in honor of Miss Chisholm. Annual reports of officers and

Sonja Henie Seeks Citizenship Because She Earns Her Living Here

Bette Davis Wants Career As Well as a Husband

By Sheila Graham.

HOLLYWOOD, May 17.—Sonja Henie will wait until the departure of the Norwegian Crown Prince and Princess before applying for American citizenship. Sonja's sensible explanation for her change of nationality is that she earns her living in this country, so why not go the whole way and swear allegiance to it?

Tyone Power's stepdaughter will shortly arrive in Hollywood to take up residence with mother Anna-bella and her handsome new pappy. The little girl has been living with her maternal grandmother. An amusing switch of title has taken place on Annabella's most recent picture for Metro. Before her marriage to Tyone, the epic was known as "Maiden Voyage." It has been changed to "Bridal Suite," with Robert Young as the celluloid bridegroom.

I always thought that Bette Davis was one of those strong females who put career before personal happiness. As a matter of fact, she does, but that has not prevented her from being extremely lonely since her marriage with Harmon Nelson crashed in divorce. "There's no one to go home to, no one to be proud and pleased or care about what I have done," she told one of her intimate women friends recently. "I'm strictly a homebody," Bette added. "I want to be a wife as well as a career girl. I will definitely marry again when I am free."

Robert Taylor and his bride are paying all expenses for 15-year-old Budge Budge to enter the national junior tennis tournament, to be held in Culver, Ind. Bob and Barbara saw the youngster perform at the West Side Tennis Club and there and then offered to sponsor him for the tournament.

In addition to traveling expenses, Budge gets a complete outfit of traveling and tennis clothes. Nice going, you two. (P. S. I can vouch for the truth of this story. I heard it from Budge, and not a publicity department!) By the way, the latest glamor groom and his bride will tentatively live on Barbara's ranch in the valley, until they furnish the new house in town.

Nunnally Johnson has a sure-fire system of getting what he wants at Twentieth Century-Fox. When he is balked by Boss Darryl Zanuck, Nunnally puts on his hat and walks out. This procedure occurred recently after Nunnally had persuaded Zanuck to buy "Grapes of Wrath." He naturally concluded that he would be the lad to script and produce the John Steinbeck masterpiece. But the boss had other ideas. He assigned the story to Writer Philip Dunne and Producer Ray Griffith. Whereupon Mr. Johnson said, "Okay"—and left the studio, never to return. After five days of silence on both sides, Zanuck called Johnson, admitted defeat, and Johnson is now in charge of the picture. Henry Fonda is first in line for the leading role.

Errol Flynn is now the most highly paid of the Warner stars. He received $4,500 for each of the 52 weeks in the year—whether he works or vacations. Errol is now reputedly worth $200,000. I understand that he charges the expenses of his yacht against income tax on the plea that it is necessary to his business. . . . With Lew Ayres on his way back from England, the talk is more emphatic that he will be reconciled with Ginger Rogers. The chief obstacle to reunion in the past—Ginger's mother—will not be in Hollywood when he returns. And the coast is clear for a get-together—if they want to.

They still can't decide whether to kill Hedy Lamarr in "Lady of the Tropics," or give her a happy ending with Robert Taylor. I am sure the fans would sooner she lived. . . . Josephine Dillon (first Mrs. Gable) is enlarging and transferring her dramatic school to the valley. . . . Hollywood's answer to the cracks against it, ascribed to Grace Moore was to stay away from her concert. Grace spent most of her time here denying the ever said such things. . . . One of the first things on Franchot Tone's schedule is a picture with Joan Crawford. . . . Cary Grant has not dated a woman (solo) since Phyllis Brooks left town—since a blonde memory "I've been too tired," he explains.

Sparkling, pearly teeth and well trained eyelashes go a long way toward "dressing up" an otherwise unattractive face.

Liquid Dentifrice Makes Teeth Sparkle; Gadget Gives Curl to Lifeless Lashes

By LILLIAN MAE.

"Teeth!" the director called, and there flashed 32 rows of gleaming pearl as the dancing girls went into rehearsal.

How different that picture would have been if the girls hadn't taken care of their appearance as well as their dance steps. And it isn't just entertainers who should look to their teeth. It isn't just a problem of appearance, but one of health as well. Of course there is nothing which can take the place of a regular visit to your dentist, but in the meantime you can certainly do much to preserve teeth and keep them looking their best.

I've always been partial to a paste dentifrice, but have recently become an addict to a burgundy-colored liquid. Just a couple of drops sprinkled on the brush produces immediately abundant foam of a very clean and pleasant taste. Teeth and mouth feel infinitely better for hours after their bath, with a cleanliness that is satisfying. And there is a sparkling difference in their appearance after using the liquid only a few times.

I recommended it to a friend of mine who has complained of nicotine stains she found it difficult to remove. She told me very delightedly that the liquid does the trick quickly and effectively. "And," she added, "my husband says it suits him just fine!"

Investigation reveals that the new dentifrice is free from chalk, grit, pumice and abrasives of all kinds—and is neither acid nor alkaline.

If you want a really effective dentifrice, which acts at the same time as a mouth wash, phone me for the name of this liquid, and the stores at which you may purchase it.

CURLING LASHES

A stage line without attractive eyes would be just as bad as one with ugly teeth. And in everyday life that is just as true. So why not make the most of your possibilities?

If your lashes appear thin and lifeless, you can by using a neat little scissors-like gadget, curl them so that they appear much more attractive. I've tried it and know that it does make eyes much more alluring.

The trick is to put just a touch of special thin cream on the rubber pad, frame the lashes for a second in the gadget, and without pulling or unpleasantness of any kind, your lashes will assume a natural-looking up-turn which makes them look longer, thicker and darker, thus giving to your eyes a lovely fringed frame which makes them much more alive looking.

I'll tell you more about this gadget and where it may be purchased if you'll phone me. If you live out of town, accompany your letter with a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Four Aces Show in One Hand Trying for Slam

By Harold Sharpsteen.

Since restricting the five no-trump jump in the Culbertson system to mean a grand slam force . . . asking partner to bid seven immediately, holding the A K, A Q, or K Q of trumps, some Culbertson players would like to know how now, when trying for a slam, to show all four aces in one hand.

Prior to the adoption of the grand slam forcing convention, a free bid of four no-trump indicated either three aces or two aces and the king of one of the suits previously bid by the partnership. A free bid of five no-trump disclosed either all four aces or three aces and a king of one of the three suits.

REBIDS FIVE NO-TRUMP.

Today, when it should happen one partner holds all four aces, the bid is still four no-trump . . . not five no-trump.

But, any conventional bid of four no-trump, immediately followed by a five no-trump rebid by the same player, shows all four aces in one hand.

No matter how tempting a hand may be, experienced players are usually reluctant to try for a slam with aceless hands. But sometimes partner simplifies matters by showing all four aces, as:

N
S-A Q J 9 4
H-A 7 2
D-A 4
C-A 9 3
E

The bidding:
South: 1 heart, 3 hearts, 5 hearts, 7 no-trump.
North: 2 spades, 4 no-trump, 5 no-trump.

ELIMINATE SOUTH'S LOSERS.

South rebids three hearts to North's game-forcing jump take-out of two spades. With hearts the inferentially agreed suit, North bids four no-trump as a slam invitation but South is compelled to sign off in the lowest suit bid by the partnership, lacking an ace.

North's rebid of five no-trump shows all four aces, enough to take care of all of South's losing cards.

REVEALS CLEAR PICTURE.

The odds are two to one in favor of 13 tricks being made. South need not hesitate in bidding seven no-trump.

Booklet Gives Nursing Advice

Someone ill at home? Your task of caring for your patient is much simpler, recovery is more rapid, when you know the essentials of nursing.

Important, if your patient is to be comfortable, to keep the bed smooth, the linen fresh.

To change the bed while your patient is in it, have her lie on one side as you roll the used linen on the other side to the center of the bed. Put fresh linen on the unoccupied half, then over your patient rolls to the newly made side and you make up the other.

No irritating museliness, pulled-out sheets if you know the trick of making envelope corners as shown in our diagram.

Select Exercise That You Enjoy

By Ida Jean Kain.

You don't just wake up some morning and find yourself glamorous, according to a split-second analysis of this hardworking but still elusive term given, on request, by the famous Beatrice Lillie.

And, furthermore, Miss Lillie would like to know what is glamor anyway, and who decides who is glamorous. As she put it, "Surely one does not wake up some morning and say 'Now, I'm glamorous.' It must be the press!"

What she has to say about a woman's most fascinating age is just as unexpected: "A woman's most fascinating age? Well, it all depends—it's very fascinating to be 18. Or 25. And 30 is divine. I wouldn't get in to the 40's."

That reservation may give you a clue—Miss Lillie's appearance certainly does not—and for general information I asked how she went about keeping so nice and slim and young-looking.

She said promptly—"I love food. I love potatoes—when they're cold, too. And cheese. There's nothing I like better than bread and cheese."

But, stubbornly pursuing the subject, I discovered that she eats only two meals a day, and small ones at that, and that she does not like desserts. So she doesn't overeat and she doesn't get extra calories in sweets.

And you could very well copy the exercise program she declares she does not have. She walks about three miles a day—because she likes to walk—and she keeps saying to herself, "Shoulders up, shoulders up!" It sounds like exercise to me.

The ability to relax explains the absence of crowfeet in a woman's face once she is past 30 and it turns out that Miss Lillie (who, by the way, seems delightfully unconcerned about whether she stays very young-looking) spends practically all her week ends in the country, which she loves. Besides, it offers a chance for tennis and swimming, both of which she enjoys very much.

The theme of all this, it would appear, is that the English comedienne does about as she pleases. She walks because she likes to walk. She also likes to play outdoors, is addicted to restful week ends, and has the habit of eating moderately. It is quite all right to love food as long as you do not eat too much of it!

And when you are planning your program and putting your food and exercise habits on a sensible basis, it might work out better if you throw in a little nonsense and some of the things you really enjoy doing. It's possible they might pass for exercise. At any rate, have as much fun as you can and your new routine will last longer.

Hints on Etiquette.

In acknowledging expressions of sympathy in time of trouble, close friends and relatives must be thanked with personal letters. If there be a great many not so close friends and acquaintances from whom expressions of condolence have been received, they may be acknowledged by an engraved card.

Words of Wisdom.

We can easily manage, if we will only take, each day, the burden appointed for us. But the load will be too heavy for us if we carry yesterday's burden over again today, and add the burden of the morrow to the weight before we are required to bear it.—John Newton.

MY DAY King and Queen, Friendly, Interested

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON.—I don't think I conveyed yesterday half the pleasure which the Lafayette College choir, from Easton, Pa., gave us all. This choir is primarily used for their church services, but they do take a number of trips, and I am very glad that we were privileged to hear them.

I held a press conference this morning, and I find that as the time approaches for the arrival of the King and Queen of England in the United States, there is very little else which seems to interest the ladies of the press. I wish it were possible for everyone who desires to see and to meet this royal couple to do so, but I don't think that either space or time will permit it. Already plans are being made for them to stand on the platform as their train goes through certain places, and I am beginning to wonder if they will ever have a chance to sit down. If this is the case in the United States, what must it be in Canada?

Out of this trip there should come a great deal of real good will, and I hope very much that minor things will not affect people in their feelings towards this young King and Queen. As far as one can judge, they seem to be friendly, interested and eager to see the world and people in general as they really are. I feel sure that, as a nation, we are going to welcome them in the same spirit.

Miss Grace Frysinger, of the Department of Agriculture, came over to tell my press conference about the women who are going to London for the conference of the Associated Country Women of the World. They will all be at rural women's day at the New York World's Fair on the 23d, before sailing on the Queen Mary on the 24th. There will be a broadcast on the 23d at the fair, from 12:30 to 1 o'clock, in which some real farm women will be interviewed by one of the announcers and then the afternoon program from 3 o'clock on will be broadcast.

The stories of the various women who are going abroad are extremely interesting. About 100 of them are women who actually live on farms. One hundred and fifty more are going who represent professional women connected with rural communities in one capacity or another. I hope that when they return it will be possible to have them give their experiences and impressions to the press and over the radio.

Today the ladies of the cabinet joined me in our annual picnic given to the ladies of the senate, and I enjoyed sitting in the sun and eating more food than I should ever eat at noon! I am happy that, on the whole, the days begin to look a little less crowded, and I hope that continues to be the case, for the weather tempts one to stay out of doors.

Let Your Dentist Decide Upon Course of Treatment

By Dr. William Brady.

(Signed letters pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Letters should be brief and written in ink. Owing to the large number of letters received only a few can be answered here. No reply can be made to queries not conforming to instructions. Address: Dr. William Brady, care of The Atlanta Constitution.)

Most people above the moronic grade of intelligence concede that irrigating a sinus or non-surgical drainage of the gall-bladder is a procedure best left to the judgment and skill of the doctor. But a good many people who are fairly intelligent about general questions think they know as well as the "ordinary" doctor does whether or how to invade areas further north or south for purposes of irrigation and the like.

Almost daily queries turn up in the mail concerning the advisability of using eye wash or eye drops every day, or nasal sprays or douches, or gargles, or enemas, and as a rule the inquiries express or imply their belief that some such practice is essential for absolute cleanliness, or for good health.

Well, life is short and we need not try to rescue these gloomy ginks en masse today. My ulterior purpose in citing these more extreme instances is to break as gently as possible the idea that all your own dentist is the adviser qualified to say whether you should brush your teeth, and if so, what you should use for the purpose and how you should do it.

In nearly all cases, whether you brush your teeth or not, it is essential to visit your dentist at intervals, varying from once to three or four times annually, to have the teeth inspected, tartar or other deposits removed by scaling or otherwise, the teeth cleaned and polished, if you wish to keep your teeth clean.

Then, too, competent dentists assure us that, while many tooth brushes and dentifrices are harmless enough as ordinarily used, some unquestionably injure the gums and some scratch the enamel, thus paving the way for the development of cavities or gingivitis (inflammation of gum).

So it would seem the sensible thing to leave to your doctor the question of dredging or washing out your duodenum and to your dentist questions about your teeth. In view of our new knowledge of nutrition and the conservation of the teeth, it is necessary to revise the saying that "a clean tooth never decays." It would be more consistent to say that a sound tooth is always clean. Consider the fine gleaming teeth of the pick-aniny basking in the sun and sucking on sugar cane; the remarkably good teeth of children coming to this country from southern Europe.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Send Vite to College.

Having taken that college teacher's dare and printed his letter of criticism, why not send him a copy of "The Seven Keys to Vite" and dare him to read it. Perhaps it will dawn on him that his health is as bad as his disposition. Thanks to you from our family for your practical and sensible advice. May you continue for many years just as you are. (G. J. A.)

Answer—I have an impression that the college man in question is really an amiable, pleasant chap. Unfortunately, I did not carry out your suggestion. It could do him no harm anyway. Glad to mail copy of "The Seven Keys to Vite" on request, if you enclose 25 cents coin and a regular size envelope bearing a stamp and your address.

Family Worries Over Brother's Sweetheart

By Caroline Chatfield.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

Our family is about to go crazy with worry over my brother. He came in the other day and calmly announced his intention of marrying a girl five years his senior. He has little education and makes the paltry sum of $12 a week. The girl is not the best type anyhow: she runs down everybody and has tried to turn my brother against his family. We have had tough going but because he made so little father has allowed him to live here free of charge. In marrying now he is turning down a wonderful opportunity to get a free aeronautical education but he doesn't consider this and of course the girl doesn't care. If you can suggest anything we can do to save my brother, please tell us because we are making no progress.

SISTER.

Answer: Frankly I don't know; because in the nature of the case a boy who proposes to get married on $12.00 a week would most certainly not be amenable to reason. However, I do know this much: that if you run down his girl and try to convince him that she's not the proper sort you will antagonize him to the point that you will have no influence with him whatsoever.

Apparently he expects to bring his bride to live as he has lived, free, on his family and if you were to turn your guns on this point, making it clear that there won't be room for two of them, you may be able to halt them temporarily. There is also a bare possibility that the girl's parents might be able to control her were they in possession of the facts, though generally speaking it's true that when parents can't prevent their own son's making a lamentable mistake in marriage, they can't expect the parents of the other party to do better.

Really, it amounts to a holdup when a youngster who can't support himself comes in and tells his family that he's going to get married. He's demanding that they assume his responsibilities at a price. And the father and mother feel as, I imagine, a victim of a gunman feels when the pistol is pressed against his middle: afraid of the consequence of meeting demands and afraid of the consequences of refusing. "How sharper than a serpent's tooth it is to have a thankless child!"

CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

POKER: Many young people today are quite as casual about matrimony as they are about the card game at the free-for-all party: willing to take a hand until something more exciting turns up to claim their interest.

Words of Wisdom.

Men call fretting a minor fault—a foible and not a vice.—But there is no vice except drunkenness which can so utterly destroy the peace and happiness of a home.—Helen Hunt.

Winners Named In Budget Contest

Judging the "Lucky Night" budget contest was one of the most difficult yet. Of the hundreds of budgeters who submitted their finds, at least half of them were comprehensive and so well thought out that a very full list was scheduled for the happy couple on the prescribed $35 a week income. But when it came to selecting finalists and prize winners, accompanying explanations, imagination, and the actual way in which the budget was presented, had to win out.

Mrs. A. L. Bowden, of Rocky Ford road, N. E., is first prize winner, and now may add $15 to next week's budget! Miss Aimee Deese, of 150 Anderson avenue, S. W., as second best budgeter, will receive a check for $10, while Mrs. Karl L. Icenogle, of 134 Terrace drive, wins the $5 third prize.

The following will receive a pair of guest tickets with the compliments of Manager Eddy Pentecost, of Loew's Grand theater, to see just how Mryna Loy and Robert Taylor make out on their $35 a week income in M. G. M.'s comedy, "Lucky Night." Mrs. S. R. Gaston, 215 Poplar circle, N. E.; Mrs. Harry Gee, 624 Linwood avenue, N. E.; Mrs. F. J. Phelan, 1115 Briarcliff place, N. E.; Mrs. Bob Cheatham, White Oaks Farm, Griffin, Ga.; Mrs. George A. Boyle, 780 Ponce de Leon place, apartment 13; E. R. Newlon Jr., 106 Montgomery Ferry drive; Mrs. B. H. Asher, 977 Ponce de Leon avenue, apartment 3; Mrs. Earl O. Wingo, 926 Piedmont avenue; Greta Fant, 917 Highland terrace, N. E.; Mrs. H. M. Mann, 809 Pulliam street, S. W.; Mrs. A. J. Stovers, 1030 Beecher street, S. W.; Mrs. T. M. Cheatham, 767 Williams street, N. W.; Mrs. R. H. Ryals, 4 Vance street, S. W.; Mrs. J. Warren Armistead, 84 Twelfth street, N. E.; Mrs. M. H. Stephenson, 429 Grant street, S. E.

Woman's Quiz

Q. I am not particularly fond of milk so I want to know the minimum amount an adult should drink daily?

A. A pint a day. The amount used as a beverage can be reduced if you have cream soups, puddings or sauces.

Q. How may rings be avoided when removing stains or spots from materials?

A. Use an absorbent cloth or blotter beneath the stain. Use straight, light strokes, beginning in the area around the stain and working toward the stain and using patting motions. Dry quickly. Blowing on the stain as the solvent is being used helps to dry it.

Q. When using baking soda with sour milk or molasses, should it be mixed with the flour or liquid?

A. Mix soda and flour and other dry ingredients so that it will not begin to act until the liquid is added.

Have you a household problem to solve? Write your question clearly, sign your name and address, enclose a three-cent postage stamp and mail to the Woman's Quiz of The Constitution, 1613 14th street, Washington, D. C. for a reply. Five of the most interesting answers will be printed here daily. Don't telephone: write as directed.

PLAYHOUSE—"The Bad Man," which provided theatergoers with delightful entertainment several years ago, will be Orson Welles' offering for the Playhouse with Lela Lupino as guest star during the broadcast to be heard over WGST at 8 o'clock tonight.

Miss Lupino will be heard as the American fiancée of a none-too-heroic chap who was perfectly willing to desert her to save his own neck. Welles, in the title role, once again succeeds in drawing enthusiasm for the ruffian who reveals a surprising touch of good humor—and solves the heroine's problems in forthright fashion.

CONCERT—Selections from the Gilbert and Sullivan operas, "The Mikado," will be sung by the ensemble as a highlight of the Friday Concert program with Lucille Manners, soprano; Ross Graham, baritone; the chorus, and the orchestra conducted by Dr. Frank Black, during its broadcast to be heard over WSB at 7 o'clock tonight.

Another chapter in the history of the petroleum industry will be dramatized in the episode of "The Romance of Oil."

FIRST NIGHTER—"Easy Dough," a dramatic sketch involving the unlawful machinations of two brothers, will be the "First Nighter" presentation during its broadcast to be heard over WGST at 7 o'clock tonight.

Les Tremayne has the leading role with Virginia Payne as mother of the pair. For the broadcast, Virginia replaces Barbara Luddy. The latter will return to the program May 26.

PARTY—Whitely Ford, the Duke of Paducah on the Plantation Party program, in a mood of deering-do, will sound off the subject of "girls" discussing the modern girl, her wardrobe, her conversation and her foibles, during the broadcast of the popular Friday night program to be heard over WAGA at 8 o'clock tonight.

Garden Center Prize Won by Club Here

At the annual convention of the Garden Club of Georgia held recently at Sea Island, the Garden Center prize was awarded to the Garden Club of Atlanta. This award is given each year to the garden center that performs the greatest service to the community.

In a recent issue of the American Home magazine appears a comprehensive article entitled "Garden Centers," and the following paragraph is of particular interest: "Established and successful centers are now to be found in Cleveland, Buffalo, Atlanta, Memphis, New York, Pittsburgh, and other cities and a visit to any of these will be profitable and inspirational."

Mrs. L. Dugas McCleskey is director of the Garden Center of Atlanta.

Gardenia Club.

Gardenia Garden Club met recently with Mrs. Lee G. Wilkie on West Shadownlawn avenue. The president, Mrs. M. E. Knight, presided.

Yearbooks outlining the work for 1939-1940 were distributed to members. Mrs. Mark Palmour Jr. reported on the rose show at the Biltmore.

The monthly study was on roses. Mrs. Irvin Ennis gave the calendar for May. Mrs. Mark Palmour Jr. described Dr. Fischer's gardens, and Mrs. A. W. Saarinen spoke of soil preparation and planting. Mrs. J. A. Lasseter discussed the classification of roses. Mrs. W. J. McKinney concluded the program with a poem.

Prizes for arrangement and for the best specimen were won by Mrs. Lee G. Wilkie. The arrangement was made of the climbing rose, Mary Wallace, and the specimen, a White American Beauty rose.

Buffet Supper Fetes Mr., Mrs. Sam Shiver

Listed among interesting events of the week end will be the buffet supper at which Mr. and Mrs. Errol Hay and their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. King, entertain tomorrow evening at their home on Brighton road.

Honor guests for the affair will be Mr. and Mrs. Samuel M. Shiver, popular bridal couple, whose marriage was a recent event of interest in Athens. Mrs. Shiver is the former Miss Hart Wyley Smith, of Athens, and who made a number of friends here during previous visits to her cousin, Mrs. Hay.

Invited to meet the honor guests are a limited number of the younger social contingent.

School Art Exhibit To Open Tuesday.

Next Tuesday at 3 o'clock is the time set for the opening of the school art exhibit at Davidson's, sponsored by the school art chairman of the Fifth District

YES, MY DARLING DAUGHTER

You'll be in the swim wearing this quaint beruffled cotton print. White flowers tumble in profusion on a blue or rose background. . .

Whether you bask lazily on the sands, ride the breakers, or thrash energetically around a pool, you'll want to know the swim suit story. There are cotton dressmaker suits with ruffles or eyelet embroidery to make you look like a little girl . . . there are satin lastex suits that mould your figure . . . new two-way stretch ones, to give you contour-control. Sharkskin and silk jersey are being used. The majority of the suits have skirts . . . a number of them flared or pleated.

As for swim accessories, do invest a little more money in your sun glasses this year, and get a pair with ground and polished lenses. Oh, and get a huge carry-all trimmed with fishnet to hold your sun oil and such.

This year's swim suits and accessories are the most flattering we've ever seen . . . so gang-way! We're off to the old swimmin' hole.

Tied with a sailor's yarn . . . this silk jersey bra and pleated skirt. Comes in exotic color combinations.

To accentuate a lovely figure . . . white satin lastex be-spattered with gay flowers.

Sleek satin lastex in a Polynesian print that moulds a figure to arresting beauty.

Oiled silk and fishnet join hands to make a sun-shade and a huge carry-all.

Gleaming white sharkskin . . . as cool and sparkling as foam, accented with navy and white polka dots.

Miss Jean McFadgen Weds Mr. Staples

The marriage of Miss Jean Douglas McFadgen, of Albany, and Earl Gordon Staples, of Carrollton, took place here Wednesday at St. Luke's Episcopal church with Rev. John Moore Walker officiating. A program of music was presented by Mrs. Anna Goodman Schwarz, soloist, and Thomas Brumby, organist.

The bride wore a smart print ensemble with white accessories and a shoulder bouquet of white orchids.

Miss Virginia Keyer, cousin of the bride, wore a model of blue crepe with japonica accessories and a bouquet of talisman roses.

After the ceremony, Miss Keyer entertained at an informal reception at the home of Mrs. Paul Ackerly on Inman circle, after which the young couple left for a short wedding trip.

Mrs. Staples is the daughter of the late Edward Sherman and Leonore Barry McFadgen, of Albany, and is the sister of Nathan McFadgen, of Chicago. Her maternal grandparents were the late Joan and Jeremiah Barry, of Louisville, Ky., and on her paternal side, she is the granddaughter of the late Nathan and Anne Dunne McFadgen.

The bride attended the Albany schools, Nazareth Junior College in Nazareth, Ky., and the University of Georgia. She was a member of the Chi Omega Sorority and the Kappa Delta Pi, honorary society, and took an active part in the dramatic society, the Thalian Black Friars. She has taught in the Marietta and Fulton county schools.

Mr. Staples is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Pelham Staples, of Carrollton, his mother being the former Miss Ola McDonald. His paternal grandfather was the late Thomas T. Staples.

"AT LAST, SIS!—YOU'RE USING GRAND TEA!"

I'VE BEEN TELLING YOU FOR AGES WHAT
SMOOTH, RICH
ICED TEA LIPTON'S MAKES! REALLY,
SIS, DON'T YOU LIKE THE FLAVOR BETTER?

I'LL SAY! IT'S SIMPLY DELICIOUS—AND A MARVELOUS THIRST-QUENCHER! BUT BEST OF ALL, SALLY,
I'VE FOUND THAT LIPTON'S COSTS LESS THAN HALF A CENT A GLASS!

FINER TEA—that was Sir Thomas Lipton's gift to the tea lovers of seven nations. Today—no other tea is as popular as Lipton's. Here are the reasons:

1. WORLD-FAMOUS FLAVOR—smooth, full, rich, delicious.
2. TENDER YOUNG LEAVES—and luscious, flavorful buds—give extra fragrance and bouquet.
3. SUPERB BLEND—of unvarying quality—praised by professional tea experts.
4. DISTINCTIVE CHARACTER—from choice teas grown in Lipton's own Ceylon gardens.
5. ECONOMICAL—you use less Lipton's per glass—it's so rich in flavor.

As Dr. Wong fired, O'Rourke fell. "He—he's killed Perry!" Janette screamed. Tarzan darted forward, braving the threatening revolver to avenge his friend, but half a dozen yellow giants pounced upon him and thrust him through the gateway of the gloomy dungeon.

Two others bore O'Rourke's limp figure into the cavern, then closed the barred gate. "You have killed a brave man," Tarzan called bitterly to Wong, "a better man than you are. I'd accept Ah-teh's offer to remain here if she would grant me five minutes alone with you."

Wong bowed gravely. "It so happens, my friend, that I am an expert with the son cheung—beggard—the revolver. You will find that Perry is not badly hurt. I had to stop him." The mysterious Chinese bowed again, turned, and strode down the corridor.

While Tarzan's hand was thus imprisoned, their sole hope of rescue was vanishing. D'Arnot, who had been sent with Ukah to summon aid, had tumbled down from the city wall, almost into the path of an elephant-mounted Tohran. The guard looked down and chuckled.

While Tarzan's hand was thus imprisoned, their sole hope of rescue was vanishing. D'Arnot, who had been sent with Ukah to summon aid, had tumbled down from the city wall, almost into the path of an elephant-mounted Tohran. The guard looked down and chuckled.

Two others bore O'Rourke's limp figure into the cavern, then closed the barred gate. "You have killed a brave man," Tarzan called bitterly to Wong, "a better man than you are. I'd accept Ah-teh's offer to remain here if she would grant me five minutes alone with you."

Wong bowed gravely. "It so happens, my friend, that I am an expert with the son cheung—beggard—the revolver. You will find that Perry is not badly hurt. I had to stop him." The mysterious Chinese bowed again, turned, and strode down the corridor.

As Dr. Wong fired, O'Rourke fell. "He—he's killed Perry!" Janette screamed. Tarzan darted forward, braving the threatening revolver to avenge his friend, but half a dozen yellow giants pounced upon him and thrust him through the gateway of the gloomy dungeon.

'Death-Kiss Woman' Is Arrested In Round-Up of Insurance Ring

Undisclosed Testimony Leaves Members With 'Mouths Hanging Open.'

PHILADELPHIA, May 18.—(AP) A long-sought widow, police know as "Rose of Death," was jerked to the center of the stage tonight in Philadelphia's stranger-than-fiction drama of wholesale murder for insurance.

In the wings, police held more than 20 additional suspects and an alleged extortioner. Prosecutors drew up cases against all and announced that group arraignments would begin next Tuesday, with the first trial a week later. They expected several guilty pleas.

Cast of Characters.
The cast of characters in this bizarre real-life performance was enlarged with the arrest in New York of Rose Carina, 45, whom investigators nick-named the "Death-Kiss Woman" in the months they sought her.

Agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation roused the household of Antonio Mastro, Greenwich Village barber, shortly after dawn today and took Mrs. Carina and Mastro into custody. Both were brought to Philadelphia.

Mastro was booked as a material witness by federal agents, but a warrant issued by Judge Harry S. McDevitt charged him with aiding Mrs. Carina to escape from a Lakewood, N. J., hideout after she had been named in a murder warrant.

Mrs. Carina, her 11-year-old daughter, Rita, and Mastro, were brought to the city by automobile. Shortly after their arrival federal agents turned them over to city police. The girl was placed in the care of a Catholic welfare home.

Killing Husband Charged.
Mrs. Carina is charged specifically with the poison death of Pietro Stea, a grocer, who was her common-law husband. She had five husbands, the first when she was 19. Three died under what detectives say were suspicious circumstances.

While FBI agents hustled her to Philadelphia, Police Captain James A. Kelly accused four persons of killing John Woloshyn, a baker, for insurance. He named Caesar Valenti, Herman Petrillo, Woloshyn's widow and "an unknown person."

Valenti, a huge Italian immigrant, was blamed for clubbing the baker "so that a large part of his head was taken off."

Widow Held.
Woloshyn's widow was held without bail as an accessory in her husband's death after Kelly testified he had canceled checks and "other documentary evidence." He had said previously that she collected $10,600 on a double indemnity policy.

Petrillo, also named by Kelly in this death, was charged with first-degree murder in the poison death of another man and faces the electric chair.

ROOSEVELT PLAYED IN BAPTIST PARLEY

George, 2 Other Senators Hit
'Meddling' in Church Affairs.

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 18.—(AP)—A committee of Baptists including three United States senators offered to the Southern Baptist convention today a "pronouncement of religious liberty" which criticized the Roosevelt administration for "meddling" in church affairs.

Dr. Rufus W. Weaver, of Washington, chairman of the committee on public relations, said the convention would be asked tomorrow to indorse the statement.

Senators whose names appeared on the pronouncement were Joseph W. Bailey, of North Carolina; Walter F. George, of Georgia; and M. M. Logan, of Kentucky, all Democrats.

Plays Meddling.
"The senators are all outstanding Baptists," said Dr. Weaver, "and plan to read the pronouncement into the Congressional Record once it receives the concerted approval of the Baptist groups of America."

He explained the committee's criticism applied specifically to proposals to extend the social security act to employees of religious agencies and to what he said were bills pending in congress to appropriate funds for sectarian schools.

Atlanta Pastor Speaks.
Dr. J. B. Lawrence, Atlanta, warned that "Protestant leadership" was attempting to establish a world-wide church union with an "ecclesiastical dictatorship."

"This idea of union," he shouted, "is set in a halo of rich sentiment. But let us not be deceived. If Baptists are to live and function, they must have a denominational life vital enough to conserve their faith."

"Every true child of God prays for the unity of Christians, but not at the expense of truth."

The convention was split wide open in today's closing session over the choice between Baltimore and Memphis as the 1940 convention city, but finally chose Baltimore by the barest of margins.

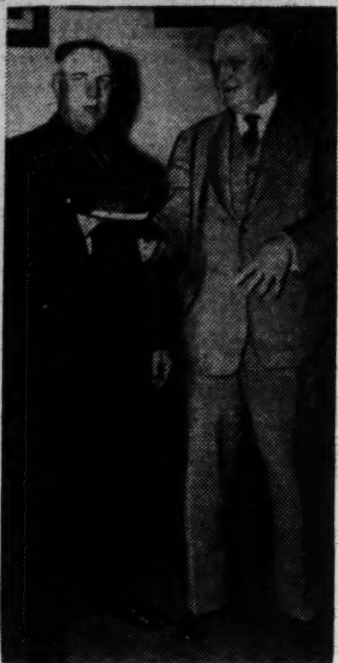

Georgians Elected.
Atlanta and San Antonio also had invited the convention.

Following a precedent of giving three years of service to each president, the convention re-elected Dr. R. L. Scarborough, of Fort Worth. He has served one year.

Dr. Rupert Naney, Oklahoma City, was elected first vice president to succeed Dr. W. W. Hammon, New Orleans, and Dr. Aquila Chamlee, Forsyth, Ga., was elected second vice president to replace Dr. Ralph A. Herring, Winston-Salem, N. C.

Dr. Hight C. Moore, Nashville, and J. Henry Burnett, Macon, Ga., were re-elected secretaries for their 27th and 22d terms, respectively.

C. E. MATHESON, 53, DIES IN HARTWELL

Brother of FHA Administrator To Be Buried This Afternoon.

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. HARTWELL, Ga., May 18.—Charles E. Matheson, 53, brother of R. E. Matheson, federal housing administrator for Georgia, died at his home here today of a stroke suffered yesterday afternoon.

He had long been in failing health.

Mr. Matheson, for many years a cotton buyer and extensive land owner, was one of Hart county's most prominent residents. Active in civic and religious affairs, he was a Rotarian and leader in the Hart County Chamber of Commerce, first county-wide organization of its kind in Georgia. He was a member of Hartwell First Baptist church, and had served as its finance committee man, and as a deacon. He also had served as a member and president of the Hartwell board of education.

Surviving are the wife, Mrs. Ethel Benson Matheson; three sons, Benson Matheson, of Atlanta; Jule Matheson, of the University of Georgia; and Charles Matheson Jr., of Hartwell; three brothers, R. E. Matheson, of Atlanta; T. L. Matheson, Hart county tax commissioner, and the Rev. J. D. Matheson, pastor of the First Baptist church of Thomson, and three sisters, Mrs. J. L. Anderson, of Greenville, S. C.; Mrs. A. S. Richardson and Mrs. Mary Norris, of Hartwell.

Rites will be held at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon in the First Baptist church, the Rev. Rufus D. Hodges officiating, and burial will be in North View cemetery here.

FECHNER IS SILENT ABOUT RETIREMENT

CCC Head Refers Questions in Savannah to White House.

SAVANNAH, Ga., May 18.—(AP) Robert Fechner, of Washington, former Savannah, declined to comment here today on the report he may retire as national director of the Civilian Conservation Corps.

"Any statement as to my service with the CCC will have to come from the White House," Mr. Fechner said.

He did recall, however, he had differed with President Roosevelt as to the CCC being benefited under the President's reorganization plan, whereby the CCC would be placed under the Federal Security Administration.

He said he had conferred with the President twice and at the President's suggestion, with the reorganization committee.

"But I was not able to convince them," he said. The reorganization plan has not been approved by congress and is soon to be put in effect, Mr. Fechner pointed out. Asked about his future career in the event he did retire as CCC head, Mr. Fechner first waved this aside with a smile, but on being questioned said he has retained his membership standing with the International Association of Machinists and while there is another actively in charge of the office at this time, he is still a vice president of the association with executive authority.

FRITZ KUHN ORDERED BEFORE GRAND JURY

NEW YORK, May 18.—(AP)—A subpoena was served on German-American Bund Leader Fritz Kuhn today, ordering him to appear before the grand jury Monday, as District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey announced a two-plot investigation of alleged Bund sales tax evasion and "alleged substantial felonies."

Remarking "there was no need to serve a subpoena on me," the big impassive Bund leader said he would appear and would waive immunity.

Barons Blast Stewart, Miller for 9-1 Victory in Series Opener

All in the GAME
by Jack Troy

Doc Shelton, who represents one of those "Don't Write" agencies, is one of the more avid Cracker fans. Man and boy, Doc has been watching the rise and fall of Atlanta teams from the days of Billy Smith up to the present.

And it was his privilege to see one of the unusual occurrences in the diamond sport that have happened at Ponce de Leon.

It happened back when Joe Guyon, the great Indian athlete, was playing left field for the Crackers.

"I say," Doc declared, "that Guyon made all three outs in one inning. You may not agree with me, but here is what happened—"

"Guyon came up the first time in the inning and struck out. The Crackers batted around and Guyon was up again. He forced a runner at second. Then, a short time later, Guyon was caught off first base.

"Did he not make all three outs in the inning?"

Well, at least he was responsible for all three, at that, and the incident is one for the record books.

Big Joe had trouble hitting left-handed pitching in this league, but he went away to the Association and whacked the portside variety of chunking right lustily.

Doc is fond of recalling the time a company official was visiting from Birmingham. They went out to the ball game and the Barons had a three-run lead going into the late innings.

The man from Birmingham was having a bit of fun at Doc's expense. The Crackers put on a rally and loaded the bases with one or two men out, Doc doesn't remember which, and he saw an opportunity to do a little expert kidding, inasmuch as Nick Cullop was striding to the bat.

"We may be three runs behind right now," Doc said, "but just wait a minute. We may be one run ahead."

And sure enough, Doc said, Big Nick polled one on top of the colored stands in left and the Crackers won the game.

The Cullops don't come along very often. The Crackers are still looking for his successor.

A LOOSE LION IS NEEDED.

Bill Keefe, witty, food-loving sports editor of the New Orleans Times-Picayune, writes an interesting piece on mudders, explaining that an uncaged lion in the proximity of Johnstown might change Big John's mind about a boggy track. Here's Bill Keefe:

"So many sports fans cannot understand why one horse is able to run in the mud and another one will not. They'll ask if there are 'mudders' and 'nonmudders' among wild horses—and what sort of a fix would a few 'nonmudders' be in if a mountain lion got behind a herd of wild horses on a rainy day.

"Well, right there is where you can get your explanation. All horses can run in the mud. Some of them just don't think they can and get frightened when the going is slippery. So they won't run. That's Johnstown. He has a high, springy stride and, being eccentric, like all thoroughbreds, he feels uncertain when his feet strike the mud, strains his muscles trying to get a claw-hold on the footing and, tiring, finally gives up in disgust. Put a lion behind him and convince him he had to run for his life and he'd show you some mud traveling.

"Many years ago I saw a man at Jefferson Park taking a little mare to the barrier one morning when it was pouring rain. Somebody asked him what he was doing and he said:

"I'm fixin' to learn this heah mare how to run in the mud." "They told him she was not bred for the mud—that she was seven years old and never had been a 'mudder'.

"We-e-l-l," he said, "it looks like we ain't goin' ter git nuthin' but mud here this winter and breedin' or no breedin' this mare's goin' to learn to run in the mud. That boy's got somethin' that'll scare her worse'n mud."

"The boy had a battery—a big one with a loud buzzer and real vibration. They broke the mare from the barrier and the exercise boy turned on the switch. Away she went like a streak. A few more lessons and that mare became one of the best 'mudders' here.

"A horse like Johnstown, who gets his own way a lot, has told himself he cannot run in the mud. So that settles it—in his mind. Some people think horses are intelligent, but they're not. That phrase 'horse-sense' is overworked. All you have to do is take the way a horse acts when his stable catches on fire to convince yourself of that. A horse will dash right back into the fire. A hog won't do that. And they rate a hog 'way down low in mentality.

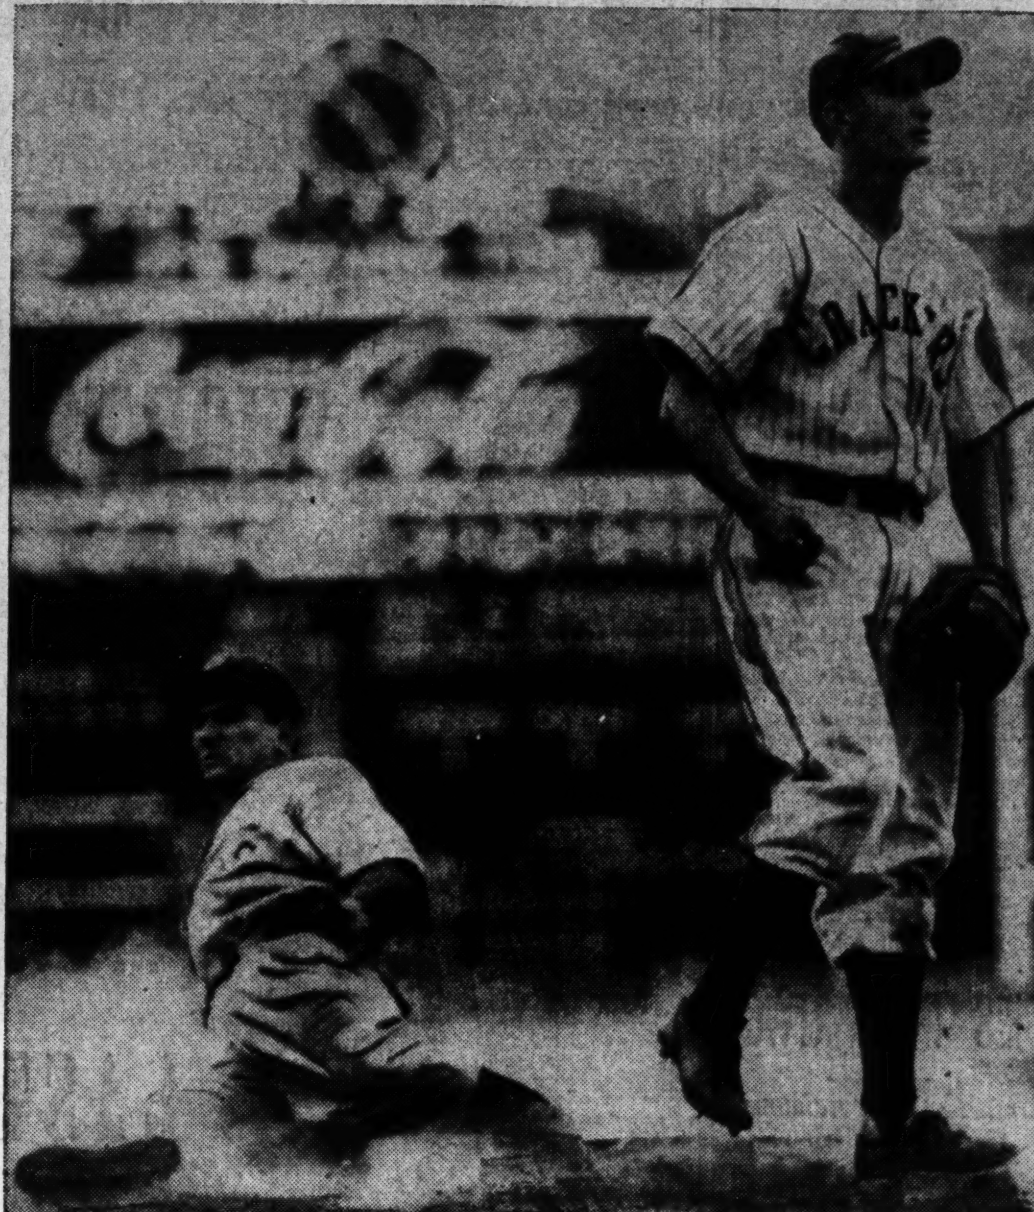

"Horses really are dumb." They are stubborn, too—get set in their ways, like some women. No use arguing with them, either. They'll go to pieces and scream and cry—the women

DUTCH ZWILLING MAKES FIRST APPEARANCE SUCCESSFUL ONE - - - SAFE A MILE

Dutch Zwilling, managing the Barons his first year, came to Ponce de Leon the first time yesterday and saw his boys bang the local leds around to the tune of 9-1. Zwilling is shown in the third-base coaching box and is watching Art Luce, the Baron center fielder, slide into third—very safe. Marshall Mauldin is at third for the Crackers and seems worried over where the ball is on the play.

LOSS IS FIRST FOR EX-MACON ACE THIS YEAR

Del Wetherell Allows the Crackers Only 6 Hits; Play Again Tonight.

By JACK TROY.

Del Wetherell sneaked in a six-hitter on the Crackers yesterday and the Barons won the opening game of the series by a margin fully as wide as Johnstown had in the Derby.

Collecting 14 hits off Mack Stewart and his successor, Larry Miller, the Barons made their blows count and walked off with a 9-to-1 victory.

Wetherell was in that form sometimes described as rare. Outside of Russ Peters' 450-foot triple in the fifth, the Crackers were unable to inflict any damaging blows.

The Crackers managed to get two infield hits in the second, but in no other inning thereafter were they allowed more than one.

REPLACED IN FIFTH.

Stewart survived the shellfire until the fifth when Miller came in and bravely carried on to the bitter end.

Arketeta, one Redskin who doesn't bite the dust, and Dunlap were the power boys of the Baron assault. Each collected three hits. Ogorek and Clancy were satisfied with two apiece.

Everybody on the Baron side got a hit except Del Salvo, the shortstop, and Manager Dutch Zwilling, who doesn't play. At the last account, Del Salvo was still getting the third degree to determine why he refused to join the hit parade.

In the absence of Jack Bolling, who has a "miser" in the back, Manager Paul Richards played first base and there were some brazen enough to discount the assertion that he bore a resemblance to Hank Greenberg. But mostly the dissenters argued he didn't because he is not as tall as the Tiger from Savannah.

SOUTHERN GENTLEMEN.

Anyway, it is pretty definitely established now that the Crackers, as a whole, are southern gentlemen. They simply refuse to win the opening game of any series at Ponce de Leon. This is being courteous to a fault.

The final game of the series tonight at 8:30 o'clock will find Luman Harris going after his fourth Cracker victory. The Crackers leave Saturday night for New Orleans.

Four Bulldogs Play Last Time at Home

Thomas, Gerson, Stallings, Newsom Close Careers Against Tech.

By EDWARD M. MILLSAP.

ATHENS, Ga., May 18.—Four of Georgia's diamond mainstays will close their college careers this week end when the Bulldogs nine opposes its arch rival, Georgia Tech, in the last two encounters of the season.

Flag-Raising Tonight At Ponce de Leon

Big doings are scheduled tonight at Ponce de Leon park in the concluding game of the Crackers' current home stand.

The Southern league and Dixie series pennants are to be bared to the breeze prior to the final game of the Cracker-Baron series.

The game is scheduled for 8:30 and the pennant raising ceremonies will take place about 15 minutes prior to game time. The State Girls' Military band will supply the music.

Montague To Seek Spot at Chicago

NEW YORK, May 18.—(UP)—John Montague, golf's Paul Bunyan, at last will match strokes with the proven great of the links, it was revealed today.

The man who reputedly has knocked birds from telephone wires with mashes and licked opponents armed only with baseball bat, shovel and rake, was on the list of 1,172 golfers vying for 141 places released today by the United States Golf Association for Monday's qualifying rounds to determine the field for the open championship June 8-10 at the Philadelphia Country Club.

Montague, on an exhibition tour of the midwest, confirmed by telephone that he definitely will play in the Chicago round—one of the 32 spots where "sectionals" will be played Monday.

Among the top-notchers he will face at Chicago in the 36-hole round over the Medinah Club

JACKSON LAKE SITE OF MOTOR RACES SUNDAY

Many Drivers To Compete in Southeastern Championship Events.

The wildest and wackiest of all sports is under way again as the outdoor racers tune up for the southeastern championship races, under the direction of the Dixie Motorboat Association to be held Sunday afternoon at Jackson Lake.

The nice thing about watching a motorboat race is that you are sure of seeing a boat chew up a rival with its propeller or at least turn over and enjoy a sinking spell. The pilots of these little racers are getting faster each year and at the present time attain a speed of nearly a mile a minute. The world's record is 79.3-10 mile per hour.

There are often many spills and accidents when seven or eight drivers are trying to take a sharp turn at the same time.

There will be guaranteed prizes of $400 and other trophies will be given. One of the most outstanding events of the day will be a race between Mary Sklar, of Newport, Tenn., and the professionals.

Ralph Hagood, who holds all records in Florida, has already sent in his entry, and Charles Hanselman from Cincinnati has his outfit shipped here by express for the big event. Claude Smith, the Atlanta boy, who missed becoming national champion last year in Chattanooga by 2-5 of a second, will be there trying for the southeastern championship.

This regatta will be the first official one held in the south according to the rules and regulations of the National Outboard Association and the American Power Boat Association.

The following list of entries have already been received: Miss Mary Sklar, Newport, Tenn.; St. Crawley, Knoxville, Tenn.; Carl Davis, Chattanooga, Tenn.; Leo Shaffer, Knoxville, Tenn.; Jack Hagood, Jacksonville, Fla.; Marcus Endel, Jacksonville, Fla.; Neil Matlock, Knoxville, Tenn.; Neil Miller, Knoxville, Tenn.; Eddie Sklar, Newport, Tenn.; Bill Sklar, Knoxville, Tenn.; Ralph Hagood, Jacksonville, Fla.; Charles Hanselman, Cincinnati, Ohio; Albert Kipker, Jacksonville, Fla.; Ray Snider, Jacksonville, Fla.; George Guy.

Brown, Hood Card Offers Hippo Hips

Ex-Navy Champ Faces Apperson Monday; Glymph On Bill.

The Ben Brown-Billy Hood fight at the ball park Monday night will be supported by a series of preliminaries involving proven crowd pleasers.

Hippo Hips, the rugged ex-gob, who held the middleweight championship of the United States navy, will meet Joe Apperson, the talented Cartersville (Ga.) gladiator, in the eight-round semi-final. Apperson has campaigned with success throughout the country and will give the powerful Hippo a battle, according to Matchmaker Virgil Warren.

Harold Glymph, who has never been and never will be a champion, who has a way of keeping the customers in an uproar when he is in there tossing wild haymakers, will also appear on the card in a six-rounder against a suitable opponent.

In all, there will be 32 rounds.

Ben Brown, campaigning for a return crack at Champion Solly Krueger here this summer, expects one of his hardest tests in an Atlanta ring when he meets Billy Hood, the Florida Hurricane. Hood lost a close decision to Ben at Miami two years ago and claims he was out of condition at the time. Billy has fought more than 150 battles against the best warriors in the business, despite the fact he is only 24 years old.

JOHNSON-CHANDLER.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 18. (UP)—Shirley Ann Johnson, medalist, of Chicago, defeated Elizabeth Dunscomb, of Memphis, 5 and 4, today to enter the semi-finals of the Marguerite Gaut golf tournament. Tomorrow she will match strokes with Mrs. Dan Chandler.

BLOWOUT FOR DALY.

They're having a little blowout Saturday afternoon at Indian Springs, members of the State Parks Department are, for Bill Daly, former Cracker and Mobile trainer, who is taking over the mineral spring baths there. Daly delved into history yesterday and said the Indians first discovered the springs and he insisted they didn't go there just for the purpose of watering their horses.

Charles Elliott, director of state parks, and his assistant, Miss Selma Williams; J. C. Glass, superintendent of the Indian Springs park; Charles Heard, superintendent of the park at Chippley, and Dr. J. E. Watkins, together with the personnel of the parks, will join together in feting Daly. The guest list also will include Daly's assistants, Miss Allen and Howell Rakestraw. Doc Watson will superintend the cooking of the 'cue.

Don't imagine it would take a great deal more for the fans to reopen their "Reese-for-manager" campaign. . . . The fans favored the veteran Andy, in the first place, as the successor of Billy Southworth. . . . Al Williams, the former Cracker, has only eight more shutouts to pitch to beat Little Eva Wilhelm's record of 11 in 1907 with the Birmingham Barons. . . . Williams' four shutouts to date have been at the expense of Memphis and Atlanta, twice each. . . .

Jack House (Birmingham News) recounts the tale of Yam Yarran's first tryout with the White Sox. . . . It seems he thought so little of his chances of sticking that he didn't even take an extra shirt to camp. . . . When Kid Gleason told him he would be retained, Yam informed him he would have to return home for his clothes. . . . Gleason said that wouldn't be necessary, they could be shipped. . . . Yam then revealed he had been afraid somebody would steal his clothes and had buried them in the woods. . . . He had to return in person and dig them up. . . .

Three cheers for the Red, White and Blue and the close of the New Orleans-Atlanta series. . . . More weird things happened in that series. . . . The fans are still asking about one that wasn't brought out. . . . It had to do with the second game when Rubeling and Mailho were on third base together. . . . Fans thought Rubie, who chased Mailho off the bag, had been tagged out and that when Mailho ran out of the base line going home, it was a double play. . . . The umpires said Mailho was off the base when Rubie was tagged. . . . There were other little items in the series, such as Scalzi rapping a single to center and having it taken away when Monaco's knee went out of place and he was forced at second, Rucker to Peters. . . . And don't forget the wackiest play of the season to date. . . . That was when Campbell was called safe at second on an attempted double play and nonchalantly walked to the bench. . . . Man of the week: Dale Alexander, who has stolen three bases for Sanford in the Florida State league. . . . Big Alex is managing the Celery Feds and is pacing the loop batsmen with a fancy figure of .452. . . . Some batting averages took a trimming in that 19-inning Chicago-Brooklyn tie. . . . And it is no bad guess that a lot of masculine fans had plenty of explaining to do to the little woman upon being late to supper. . . . Tonight's double flag raising night at Ponce de Leon. . . . Wonder what a Dixie series pennant looks like, anyway?

AUBURN IS GIVEN EDGE OVER TECH FOR 2D POSITION

Finals in All 15 Events Set Saturday Afternoon at Birmingham.

By KENNETH GREGORY.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., May 18. (AP)—Star athletes numbering more than 100 invaded Birmingham today to compete in the seventh annual Southeastern conference track and field championships at Legion field, with all 13 member schools represented for the first time.

On the eve of the inaugural events of the meet, Louisiana State University's well-balanced squad appeared certain to defend the crown the Baton Rouge delegation romped away with a year ago. Auburn's Plainsmen were linked for runner-up honors.

Winning the conference championship here on Legion field is nothing new to the Louisiana State University's Southeastern Athletic League was formed in 1932, the charges of Coach Bernie Moore have won five of the six meets. Georgia triumphed two years ago.

SHOULD WIN EASILY.

On the basis of season performance, Louisiana State should win again by an almost double score. Last May the Tigers scored in every event except the broad jump, for a total of 66 points, with Auburn second at 38. Georgia Tech, although the runner for second place, gave the Plainsmen defeated the Yellow Jackets in a dual meet.

If weather conditions provide a fast track and firm footing in the field, a half-dozen prevailing records appeared in jeopardy. The gathered forces figured the half-mile race, the 800-yard race, the mile relay marks most likely to fall, with a possibility of new records in the broad jump, the javelin thrust and the high jump. Three of those records have been bettered in spring meets.

Louisiana's Bill White, a husky football tackle, has thrown the record 154 feet, which is well beyond the mark of 149 feet, 3-4 inches made by Maurice Green, of Georgia, in 1937. Louisiana State's relay team ran the mile event in 3 minutes, 14.2 seconds at the Decatur, Ga. Baton Rouge team established the record of 3:16.5 last year. Vanderbilt's Billy Young hurled the javelin 207 feet, 8 1/2 inches last week, this being nearly 4 feet past the record.

RECORDS IN DANGER.

Louisiana State has two fine athletes who may hang up conference marks. A gangling sophomore sensation, Billy Brown, has already come close to the standing marks in the broad and high jumps, and Frank Church, a junior, has done the half-mile in just three-tenths of a second off the record.

The oldest record in the book is the broad jump of 25 feet, 6-3 inches, established by Ed Hamm, of Georgia Tech, in 1928. Brown has done 25 feet, 4-3 inches. Francis Myers, of Mississippi State, has cleared the bar in the high jump at 6 feet, 5 inches, just 3-8 of an inch under the mark set by Lloyd Ritchey, of Auburn, in 1934. Brown has done 6 feet, 3 inches.

Competition in the championship meet gets under way Friday afternoon with trial heats in several of the track events. The finals in all 15 events listed on the program are scheduled for Saturday afternoon.

Here Are S. E. C. Track-Field Records

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., May 18. (AP)—Here are the records of the Southeastern conference track and field events, at which the squads of the 13 schools will be shooting Friday and Saturday:

SMITHIES PLAY PURPLES TODAY FOR PREP TITLE

Boys' High Victory Would Throw Race Into Tie; McKinney To Pitch.

By ROY WHITE.

Tech High and Boys' High will battle at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at Ponce de Leon park for the city prep baseball championship. It's the final round of the season, and no finer game could have been arranged to close a prep athletic year.

Tech High has won the city and state high school championship for the past eight years, and in doing so has compiled one of the greatest records in all prep baseball history. The Smithies haven't lost more than 10 games in that eight-year period and have beaten some great pitchers.

The Smithies hold a slight lead in the race for the championship and a loss today will place the Purples in a tie for the leadership with a play-off necessary.

SMITHIES WIN 1ST.

Boys' High had a 5-2 lead going into the eighth inning of the first game between the two, but weakened and allowed the Smithies to win, 8 to 7, with a big six-run rally in the last half of the eighth inning.

Jack McKinney, ace of the Boys' High pitching staff who was not in the best of condition in the first game, has regained his old-time form and will be the sole hope for the Purples this afternoon. McKinney is not only the Purples' best pitcher, but he is the team's outstanding hitter and one of the league's leaders in home runs.

Boys' High suffered a severe blow some time ago when Bill Glass, a catcher, broke an arm. He was steady and a cool headed runner.

Coach Sidney Scarborough had not decided last night just what pitcher he will use in today's game. Tanner, who defeated the Purples in the first game and the only holdover pitcher back from last year's championship squad, is not in the best of shape.

WILSON MAY START.

Wilson pitched a good game against G. M. A. last week and may be given the starting assignment. Mike Dorsey and Glenn Bishman have been working hard trying to win their places as regular starters. They are in fine shape and ready to go this afternoon.

It's by far the best high school baseball game of the year with the championship hanging in the balance.

The admission will be only 25 cents and 15 cents for students who purchase tickets at the schools.

Tech High's lineup will include Maxwell, short; Cook, third base; Tinsley, first base; Skiles, center field; Grant, left field; Melvin, right field; Bracwell, second base; and Whitely or Ragdale, catcher.

Boys' High will line up with Peacock, second base; Swindell, center field; Bailey, left field; McKinney, pitcher; Humber of James, third base; Chaffin, right field; and Jenkins, shortstop. The catcher and first base place were not decided Thursday night.

SWEET FOR A SEASON

When Mr. Lee Tells Masters Glada Sold Her Farm, Masters Tells of Tess

By JOSEPH McCORD.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE: Glada Lee worries her mother because she dropped her university course two years, went to state agricultural college and now is more interested in her chicken farm than in matrimony. Ed Lee, her father, is a lawyer and Dale City's leading citizen. Her older brothers, Bailey and Trevor, are married and Masters, the youngest, is engaged to Evelyn Barclay for whose father he works in the nearby Kedron bank, and Mary Lee feels that her daughter should settle down. After Mrs. Lee has her good-looking young pastor, the Rev. Mr. Lynn Stirling, to dinner, she suggests he would make a good husband. Glada says she isn't interested in marriage. The next day the minister goes to Glada's farm and tells her he loves her, saying as he leaves, "Some day--I intend to marry you." Cobb Pate, her farm manager, breaks his leg and she gives Gern Jones, a down-and-out, a job. He gives evidence of culture but has a puzzling manner. Tess Sidbury tells Glada that Masters told her she can't face this, she says, must go away and needs a job. When Glada says she hasn't that much Tess threatens to go to the Barclays. Masters tells Glada he met the girl at a party where he was drinking and what happened is hazy. Finally Glada comes in Stirling. He sees her and reports she "listened to reason." When Masters writes that the girl is bragging he held him up for a grand, Glada admits he paid her $1,000. Glada sells her farm to J. Q. Adams but he becomes sick and asks her to remain in. She pays Stirling $1,000. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

INSTALLMENT XXVIII.

"Tough, Mom. Buck up, though. She's going to pull through okay. You'll see. We stopped in at the hospital. She's no worse, they say, Heart's keeping up, and all that sort of thing."

Mary Lee's only reply was a fit of sobbing. Masters took to his feet and Evelyn took a seat on the side of the couch, holding one of the older woman's hands in both of her own in wordless sympathy. Masters looked inquiringly at his father and Ed nodded his head in the direction of the library. With the door closed and the lamp lighted, the two men faced each other, Ed seated in his favorite chair, his son standing on the rug.

"Can you tell me about it, Dad?"

"Of course," Master's face was so white and miserable that his father regarded him in almost a puzzled fashion before he went on. "There isn't much to tell. Glada was coming in from the farm and her man, that young Jones, was driving. They were passing the airport when the car left the road, ran head-on into a telephone pole. Glada, poor child, was struck on the head. Concussion. The doctors say I know. They told me. She may pass out without waking up and she may be all right. Was the fellow hurt badly?"

"No. Cut over one eye was all." "Why didn't it break his neck? How did it happen, anyway? And what were they doing out by the airport, if they were coming in from the farm?"

"I can't tell you." Masters hurried a cigaret he had just lighted into the empty fireplace with a hopeless gesture. "There was something suspiciously like a sob in his voice, as he exclaimed, 'I'll never forgive myself, if anything happens to that kid! The last thing I ever did for her was to bawl her out in a letter, after she--'

"After she what?"

"Oh, we had a little disagreement was all. And I acted like a cad!"

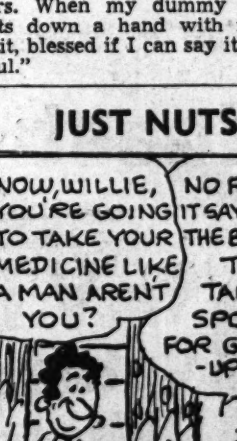

His father looked at him closely.

before speaking further. Something he saw in the boy's face prompted him to make an experiment. He asked quietly, "Had you happened to hear that Glada sold her farm?"

"She-- she sold her farm! You don't mean that, Dad!"

"Yes, she did. She didn't tell me until after she had closed the deal and needed help about her deed to the place. I wouldn't ask her why. It was pretty evident she had to have money for something. You know how wrapped up she was in that place, don't you?" He spoke in the quietly relentless voice he would use in cross-examining a witness.

"Oh, Lord."

Ed Lee waited for a moment. Then he asked gently, "Son, isn't there something you'd like to tell the old man?"

Masters Lee made no immediate response to his father's quiet question, but slumped down in a chair and stared moodily into space. At length he broke out desperately:

"Yes. It can't make much difference now." Again he hesitated, as if uncertain how best to state the case. "It's like this, Dad. . . . You see I got into a jam . . . with a woman. It turned out to be a frameup, but I laid myself open to a beautiful case of blackmail. It was a scandal . . . or a thousand dollars. Which I didn't have."

"Masters!" his father exclaimed reproachfully. "What did I ever do that you couldn't have brought your trouble to me . . . instead of Glada?"

"You've got that wrong, Dad. I'm not that much of a heel, quite. When I wouldn't come across, they went to Glada without my knowing it. They thought she'd do something about it. They were afraid of you. You see, the plot was to tell it to the Barclays. You can figure what that would have meant."

"Yes. Go on."

"Well, Glada was pretty frantic. She stalled them off for a week, then beat it up to see me. She told me she didn't have the money and didn't know where she could get it. But she insisted that she would do something and I wasn't to make a move until she had a chance. She was to let me know. Well, she did. I told her that she wasn't to pay down any money, no matter what happened. She called me, just about on the deadline, and told me everything was okay. And she insisted she didn't come across with any cash."

"Yes?"

"I didn't see her until that week end I was here with Evelyn. Glada didn't tell me what had happened . . . wouldn't. But she gave me her word she didn't pay. Two days later I found out she had paid a cool thousand. It made me pretty sore and I wrote and told her so, and that I'd pay her back in time. That was my thanks to her for saving me and all you folks. And now . . . His voice broke.

"I see," Ed Lee said slowly. "That was like my girl. It clears up a number of things. All but one. That happened some little time back. It must have."

"Yes. Why?"

"Never mind. See here, Masters. This is just between us. If Glada pulls out of this, you are going to pay her that money. See me. It's the least we can do. I think we'd better go out to Mama and the others now."

When the two entered the living-room, they found that Lynn Stirling had arrived. He came forward to greet them, retaining Ed's hand in his firm grasp as he said, "I am hoping and believing that the word will be good. If there is anything in the world that I can do, please tell me."

"Thank you, sir. I guess there is nothing any of us can do but hope. It shouldn't be long."

It was late the following afternoon, when Ed Lee mounted the steps to his office for the first time since the accident. He had apprised Katie Anderson of his coming, asked her to arrange his mail so that he could skim through it. Now, he gave her a nod and a smile as he passed through the outer room.

"I'm so glad for you, Mr. Lee!" she exclaimed, her plain face lighting up.

"Thanks, Katie. We all of us are."
